Snow Buries Ont.

Times News Services

A late-winter snowstorm lashed nearly all areas of Ontario Wednesday, closing schools and major highways and resulting in the death of two persons.

Blinding snow in the London area made driving impossible and many people abandoned their cars. A three-car pileup killed two and injured three near Sarnia.

13% FOOD HIKE FORECAST

Double-Digit Inflation

TORONTO (CP) — Double-digit inflation will hit Canadian grocery bills again this year but won't reach the 17.4 per cent high of last year, the Retail Council of Canada predicts in its latest food prices forecast.

The council says food prices probably will increase by an average of 11 to 13 per cent this year, up from the nine to 11 per cent it originally predicted for 1979.

The increase means a basket of food worth $100 in 1971 will cost consumers an average of $232.66 to $236.85 this year.

The 17.4-per-cent increase in food prices last year forced consumers to pay $209.60 for the food basket in terms of 1971 prices.

(Vancouver tax expert Jacques Barbeau told a Victoria business audience Wednesday Canada could see an over-all inflation rate of 12 per cent due to high debt financing and poor economic performance. See page 10).

The retail council says 1979's major culprits are higher-than-expected increases in beef prices, steep boosts for imported produce, and the lifting Jan. 1 of a federal government subsidy on wheat.

It says a holding back of animals by farmers eventually will result in lower prices but for now consumers can expect beef prices to rise through to the early 1980s.

The council predicts consumers will pay an average of $24.08 this year for beef they could buy for $10 in 1971 — a 20 per cent increase over the $20.07 consumers paid last year.

And while the council is predicting a rise in pork prices as well, the chairman of the Ontario Pork Producers' Marketing Board said Wednesday he expects prices to drop.

Howard Malcolm told the board's annual meeting that Ontario farmers probably will produce 15 per cent more hogs this year than last. This should result in an average price of $67.50 for hogs, $2 less than last year.

However, Malcolm said pork prices vary too much to allow him to translate the lower hog price into decreases the consumer can expect to pay for specific cuts.

Meanwhile, the government has no quick solutions for bringing down high food prices so consumers should shop wisely, Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand said Wednesday in the Commons.

Through a mix of programs, the government aims to moderate or stablize

Sadat Cabinet 'Yes' But Violence Flares

Times News Services

The Egyptian cabinet today approved a proposed peace treaty between Egypt and Israel, but as the pact moved through its final stages violence mounted on the West Bank of the Jordan River where Israeli troops killed two Arab student protesters in the week's bloodiest clash.

The military governor of the West Bank and other Israeli authorities are investigating the incident, the worst so far in protest against the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

The announcement said the shooting occurred when "a group of soldiers and civilians was caught in a violent outburst by hundreds of students on the main road in Halhoul, 32 kilometres south of Jerusalem.

In addition to Halhoul, demonstrations flared in five other West Bank towns. Outlawed Palestinian flags were raised in Bir Zeit and Jericho. Youths erected stone barricades on roads in Beit Jalla, Jericho, Hebron and Halhoul, and students stayed away from school in Ramallah.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said he thinks "we have achieved peace, thanks to Jimmy" and he praised Carter for his "marvellous" job of peacemaking.

The Egyptian cabinet's approval of the treaty had been expected. Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil announced the 32-member body voted unanimously in favor of it after a four-hour debate.

The Egyptian parliament's approval is considered certain. The Israeli cabinet is expected to endorse the full treaty Sunday and the Israeli parliament soon afterward.

Cardboard Coffins Given Cold Shoulder

Victoria funeral directors aren't interested in cardboard coffins and a rent-a-casket scheme being used on the Lower Mainland.

Jack Irving of Hayward, Thompson and Irving Funeral Co., said his funeral parlor won't have anything to do with Ken Timlick, a mortician who recently started a low-cost casket rental service in Delta.

Mason Sands, of Sands Mortuary Ltd., said he's willing to listen to Timlick, but has his doubts about the idea.

"I'm open to anything, but I can't see that its going to save a lot of money."

Most of the funeral expense is not the casket, but the services offered by funeral parlors, he said.

However, Timlick claims total cost of his rental service is a maximum $185 — half the cost of even the cheapest conventional funeral.

Some funeral directors are against his service because it jeopardizes their profits, which are often outrageously high, he charged.

"There is no profit control in this industry. It's like Jesse James without a gun.

"Funerals are for the living; they don't make any difference to the deceased. But why should people pay through the nose for a casket they only get to view a total of two or three hours?"

But Sands believes people have a great deal of respect for funeral rituals and won't want to see their relatives buried in corrugated cardboard.

The local branch of the 90,000-member B.C. Memorial Services Society says it isn't interested in Timlick's service either.

Joan Bennett, manager of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Memorial Society, said the concept is not new.

"We've been doing it for years," she said.

The society offers simple, low cost funerals starting at $285 for members and $305 for non-members plus cremation and burial costs.

Timlick says he wants to offer his service, called Western Casket Rental, to Victoria funeral parlors.

He said he is out to beat the high cost of dying by giving people cheap, unpretentious funerals.

The customer buys a cardboard coffin and rents a special bottomless casket for the funeral service.

After the service the cardboard container is interred, but the rented casket, called a catafalque is returned to the funeral parlor.

More practical customers with less regard for convention can dispense with the catafalque and spend just $6 on the cardboard coffin, complete with satin-like lining.

Six Vancouver funeral parlors offering the service are doing a steady rental business, he said.

But Timlick is finding it difficult to change tradition. His application to join the B.C. Funeral Service Association was rejected and association members are meeting in Vancouver this weekend to discuss his revolutionary concept, he said.

Lougheed Swept Back into Office

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta Progressive Conservatives won an overwhelming mandate Wednesday in a general election that Premier Peter Lougheed said took the province to the "crossroad of the future."

The victory gave Lougheed his third consecutive term in office with an increased majority while reducing the opposition side by one seat.

Final Standings:

PC	74	69
SC	4	4
IND	0	1

Conservatives won all ridings that had been created in re-distribution and also took the Drumheller constituency held in the last legislature by an independent.

"We're at a very key time, the crossroad of the future of this province," Lougheed told a crowd of supporters after his election was declared.

Although he said he would use his new mandate to protect the resources of Alberta, he told a news conference in Calgary that he remains dedicated to national unity.

"I'm a strong Canadian, I'm à Canadian before I'm an Albertan."

Despite the win, the Conservatives dropped in percentage of popular vote — from a record 62 per cent in 1975 to 57.0 per cent. Social Credit and NDP made slight gains, from 18.1 to 20.0 and 12.9 to 15.7 per cent respectively.

The Liberals, without representation for the last two terms, collected 6.6 per cent of popular vote and other candidates scraped up 0.7

Air Fare Bargains Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Canada's bargain-seat sale March 27 to May 7 was approved today by the Canadian transport commission.

The sale, amounting to as much as 65 per cent on regular fares, was protested by both CP Air and Pacific Western Airlines, although CP Air later matched the Air Canada offer.

In announcing its approval today, the commission said the sales will be subject to special monitoring in an effort to assess their impact on the air carrier industry.

The monitoring will allow the commission "to be in a better position to assess and rule on any possible objections if similar fares are filed in the future."

The commission also suspended further air fare hikes until it can decide if they are reasonable.

Air Canada, CP Air and the regional airlines are seeking a five per cent increase on domestic runs. A hearing is scheduled March 26.

Hartwig 'Pulls the Plug'

Victoria businessman Hans Hartwig said today he has cancelled a $5.5 million Inner Harbor development because of the runaround he has been getting at city hall.

Hartwig said he met with the city's Advisory Design Panel Wednesday night and after failing to reach an agreement concerning a public walkway along the waterfront "I pulled the plug and told them to go to hell."

"As far as I'm concerned that's the end of it. No building, no walkway, no nothing — that's a $5.5 million development down the drain for the city of Victoria."

Hartwig said he decided to abandon the plans for a building on Wharf Street at the foot of Yates because the city wanted to hold things up until a foreshore lease had been obtained from the federal government for the walkway, a process that could take from six months to two years.

Hartwig said he has been trying to get his building up for two years and has been to hundreds of meetings at city hall.

"It doesn't make any sense for them to come up with this now. I am sure we will get the foreshore lease, there has never been any doubt about that . . . but now they are saying 'but what if you don't.'"

Hartwig said he has offered to give the city a covenant that would permit him to start construction but restrict him from moving into the building until after the foreshore lease is signed.

He has also offered to build a walkway along the building — rather than out over the water — in the event a foreshore lease is not obtained.

"There has got to be some trust in this," said Hartwig.

The site at 1208 Wharf, adjacent to Hartwig Court, is owned by Hartwig's company Diversified Holdings Ltd., which plans to build a 90,000-square-foot office-retail complex.

Earlier, city aldermen expressed concern about the development's impact on a waterfront park nearby.

Ladysmith Woman, 55, Disappears

Police are mystified by the disappearance of a 55-year-old Ladysmith woman whose husband — due to stand trial on a major drug charge — is presumed to have died in a plane crash 16 months ago.

Margaret Kathlene Williams was reported missing March 7.

Her husband, Arthur, was the pilot of a light plane which crashed Nov. 30, 1977 near the mouth of the Fraser River on a flight from Vancouver Airport to Cassidy near Nanaimo.

His body was never recovered although parts of the plane, including a badly twisted pilot's seat were found later floating on the surface. A wheel strut was located months later on a beach near Campbell River.

Williams was facing trial on charges of manufacturing MDA and conspiracy to traffic in the drug.

The charges were laid after members of the Victoria drug squad raided a clandestine drug lab in the Ladysmith area in August, 1977.

Ladysmith RCMP said Mrs. Williams' disappearance is being treated as any other missing person although officers are puzzled.

A spokesman said there is no indication of foul play, nor any sign of a break in or struggle at her home. Her car was in the driveway; she apparently left with only the clothes on her back, including a brown and white tweed coat and her purse.

"Wherever she went, she went willingly," Mrs. Williams' sister-in-law, Ruth Dashwood of Ladysmith, said today. "But she wasn't the type to leave without telling someone:"

Mrs. Dashwood ruled out the possibility her brother Art had survived the crash and that Mrs. Williams had left for a secret meeting with him.

"Art died in that crash. There's no question about that," she said.

The missing woman is described as five feet, four inches tall, 115 pounds with brown eyes, black hair and dark complexion.

Roe Season Closed

The west coast of Vancouver Island has been closed to roe herring fishing until further notice.

The fishing opened March 4 in Esperanza Inlet and has been concentrated in such areas as Barkley Sound, Nootka Sound and Winter Harbor.

At one time, up to 380 gillnetters and 120 seiners were operating in Barkley Sound.

Federal fisheries officials said Wednesday that so far the seiners have taken more than 13,000 tons of roe herring while gillnetters have taken more than 9,000 tons.

ADC Post Goes To Social Worker

Social worker Ken Matsune has been appointed commissioner of non-narcotics services of the Alcohol and Drug Commission, Health Minister Bob McClelland said.

Veterans Set To Celebrate

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada will hold a St. Patrick's Day dance for members and their guests 9 p.m. Friday at 1001 Wharf Street.

Last Firebomb Police Hope

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are hopeful that a spate of firebombings has come to an end with the apprehension Wednesday of an unemployed cleaner by a member of a citizen's band radio group who held the suspect until police arrived.

CB volunteers had been helping police on overnight stakeouts of banks and government offices — the favorite target of the attacks — for about two months.

Julius Bela Demjan, 47, of Vancouver was charged with two arson-related offences after CB radio operator Vic Eaton, on stake-out at a Canada Manpower office, spotted a man throwing a molotov cocktail through a window in the building.

Eaton said he followed a suspect in his car but eventually had to chase him on foot to make sure he did not get away. When Eaton approached the suspect after alerting a cab driver to call police, the suspect gave up without a struggle.

Meanwhile, two juveniles were arrested Wednesday following a police investigation into three firebombings at a West Vancouver elementary school.

Police said the juveniles, aged 15 and 16, will be charged with arson in the firebomb attacks which took place earlier this month.

A Bilingual Law Threat

Parks Canada officials are using fighting words to rewrite history, a Simcoe, Ont., woman has discovered. Dorothy McArthur, wife of the director of Simcoe's Eva Brook Donly Museum, was told to relinquish the museum's historic plaque — written only in English — to a Parks Canada official, or face the RCMP. "It was upsetting," she said. J. I. Skerritt, superintendent for Parks Canada's regional office in London, Ont., had asked her for the sign to replace it with a bilingual model, in accordance with the federal government's language program. "I didn't threaten the lady, but I told her the plaques could be seized by the RCMP," he said.

A hungry, smiling, laughing baby Herbie Quinones will return home to Brooklyn, N.Y., next week cured by a Toronto surgeon of a critical throat malfunction that almost killed him 30 times in his first eight months of life. "It's going to be great to have a baby around the house again. The big change is when he eats — now he can eat like a normal baby," said the baby's grinning father Herb senior Wednesday. As if to prove the point, Herbie seized a reporter's microphone and, fondling it in his tiny hands, pulled it toward his mouth. Dr. Robert Filler, who performed the delicate operation to correct Herbie's condition, said the operation was "as successful as we ever could have hoped. He's eating, he's smiling, he's laughing. I hope we don't ever have to mention his condition again."

He sings Take This Job and Shove It, now country music singer Johnny Paycheck wants his business manager to shove it. Claiming his business affairs have been mishandled for the past six years, Paycheck has asked a Nashville court to dissolve his management contract with city offical Glenn Ferguson. Paycheck also said Ferguson oversaw his affairs for six years during city office hours and through the use of city employees.

Singer Natalie Cole, daughter of the late crooner Nat King Cole, and her husband, Rev. Marvin Yancy, have filed for a legal separation, according to Cole's Hollywood lawyers. Cole and Yancy were married July 30, 1976 in Chicago. They have a 1½-year-old son, Robert Adam Yancy, born Oct. 14, 1977.

A Vancouver trial lawyer who is president of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association has won $50,000 for his first novel about the heroin drug trade in that city, the book's publishers announced Wednesday. William Deverell, 42, won the competition over 275 other manuscripts for his book Needles, said Anna Porter, president of Seal Books — the mass-marketing paperback publishing company started jointly by McClelland and Stewart and Bantam Books in 1977, sponsors of the Canadian contest. Deverell describes his book as "good entertainment, a courtroom drama with thriller aspects."

Meanwhile, Montrealer Kurt Balasa at 23 has been convicted of robbing six banks, which is nothing near a record in his hometown. But Balasa has an unusual specialty — the unarmed holdup. He was on his way back to the pen on Wednesday for another two-uear stint following his latest conviction. Balasa's most recent performance was typical, if bizarre, testimony at his trial showed. Carrying no weapon, he entered a west-end bank on Jan. 3 and pointed his finger ominously at a teller. Thinking he had a concealed gun, the teller offered no resistance as Balasa slipped behind her counter, scooped up $4,000, and left the bank. He was pursued and caught about a block away by an assistant manager. Balasa apologized profusely and handed back the money as he and the banker awaited police. Did John Dillinger really start the same way?

Month of Horror for Shipwreck Family

JUNEAU (AP) — Their boots lost and with little more to eat than two onions and some Tang breakfast drink, a man and his three teen-age children survived in sub-freezing temperatures for more than a month after their sailboat ran aground on an island.

Elmo Wortman, 53, and his children Randy, 16; Cindy, 17 and Geana, 13, were marooned on Valentine's Day when their 33-foot sailboat Home ran aground in a winter storm and broke up off Dall Island.

They were rescued after spending a month in southeast Alaska's coldest February since the turn of the century. The average temperature was about minus 10 and the mercury climbed above freezing on only two days during the month.

Wortman and his children, who live at Port Refugio, a tiny harbor on a small island in southeast Alaska, were under treatment Wednesday for severe frostbite at Ketchikan General Hospital.

He told the coast guard the four wore flotation jackets when they were shipwrecked on Feb. 14, but lost their boots.

Wortman said they then began a 40-kilometre trip by foot and raft to another of the many small islands in southeast Alaska in search of help.

When on land, the shoeless Wortman and his eldest daughter walked the rocky, icebound shore while the younger children trailed on the raft, he said.

Ten days later, the family decided to separate, and a shelter was set up on the beach for the girls while Wortman and his son decided to search for a cabin.

The girls remained alone for 13 days.

Meanwhile, Wortman and Randy were "traversing heavy snow and slush ice when forced to abandon" their makeshift raft on Feb. 25.

They found an unoccupied but food-stocked cabin owned by Pat Tolson, but failed to get a citizens band radio to work, the coast guard report said.

There was a break in the weather on March 4, however, and as rains melted some of the snow, the men found a damaged fiberglass skiff on the beach and were able to make it seaworthy.

Six days later, they left a note and set sail to pick up what they believed would be the bodies of Cindy and Geana.

The Great Oklahoma Missing Trouser Caper

ANADARKO, Okla. (UPI) — It might have been a little embarrassing had there been an early morning fire call for three firemen who awoke to find their trousers had been stolen.

Fortunately there wasn't a call. But firefighter Ron Cherry said even if there had been, at least the men would have been decently covered by their big boots and heavy-duty coats.

Cherry said Wednesday someone entered the station while the three men slept Monday night and removed the trousers, which had been draped over the ends of the beds.

Second Cross-Border Smith Raid

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesian military planes bombed a black nationalist guerrilla arms dump in Mozambique in their second strike across Rhodesia's eastern frontier this week, the military command announced today.

A brief military communique said the attack Wednesday was aimed at an arms depot of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union at Chocue, 180 kilometres northwest of Maputo, the Mozambique capital.

There were no reports of casualties or damage.

The military command said its jets raided Chocue and a nearby guerrilla barracks Monday. There was no immediate word on why the announcement was delayed.

In Lisbon, the official Portuguese news agency ANOP, quoting Mozambique's military headquarters, said 17 persons, including a Rhodesian, were killed and two Rhodesians were among seven wounded in Wednesday's raid. The agency did not say what the Rhodesians were doing at the guerrilla outpost.

The official Mozambique news agency AIM said the casualties included one Mozambican soldier killed and two others wounded.

Rhodesia has carried out periodic raid against Mugabe's guerrillas in Mozambique and bases of Joshua Nkomo'a Zimbabwe African People's Union in Zambia.

Cross-border raids have been stepped up prior to next month's scheduled elections to give Rhodesia its first black-majority government. Nkomo and Mugabe have vowed to sabotage the elections.

Government accounts say Rhodesian military planes have attacked at least seven camps in neighboring territories in the last month. The military says the raids killed hundreds.

CENTO Now Total Shambles

ANKARA (Reuter) — The Central Treaty Organization (CENTO), the Western Asian defence alliance, collapsed today after Turkey joined Iran and Pakistan in pulling out.

The government of Premier Bulent Ecevit announced the Turkish decision today after a special cabinet meeting. The Turkish withdrawal leaves only Britain as a full member of CENTO. The United States is an associate member.

Today's Turkish cabinet announcement said: "The government has decided to make the necessary initiatives at CENTO headquarters (here) to terminate CENTO."

The alliance was formed in 1955 with Iraq among its founder members and was at first known as the Baghdad pact. Iraq withdrew in 1959.

There was no immediate comment from CENTO headquarters in Ankara.

Kamuran Gurun of Turkey, the organization's secretary-general, said Tuesday, after hearing of the withdrawals of Iran and Pakistan, that he could not comment until his office was officially informed.

Today's Turkish government statement indicated that the CENTO headquarters would soon close despite Britain's continuing theoretical membership.

THE MERCEDES IS KNOWN FOR ITS ENGINEERING.
THE VOLVO FOR ITS DURABILITY.
THE NEW MAZDA 626 WILL BE KNOWN FOR ALL OF THESE.
PLUS IT'S AFFORDABLE.

The better cars of the world are better because they are engineered better, they perform better and they are built to last longer. Trouble is, for most people these cars are out of reach.

Not anymore.

Now there's the Mazda 626. This new, exciting European-style car is going to make a lot of people happy. Happy because, they can now afford to buy a car that combines some of the outstanding features that go into cars like the Mercedes, BMW and Volvo.

In fact, the price may be the major thing that sells you on the 626, but let's take a look at what you'll be buying.

Take engineering. The combination of MacPherson strut suspension in the front and a 5-link suspension in the rear, gives the 626 the ride of an expensive European car. And the cornering of a sportscar. Handling is superb because the 626's steering system is patterned after the Mazda RX-7.

Take performance. The 626 is probably the finest aerodynamically designed car in its class. it was literally shaped to slip through the air. For example, the remarkable 0.38 drag coefficient of the 626 hardtop is almost the same as the Mazda RX-7. What this means is the 626 gets the equivalent of 10 more horsepower at top speed, improved acceleration (0 to 100 km in just over 12 seconds) and better fuel economy. If effect, the 626's body serves an important function besides looking beautiful.

Under the hood of that beautiful body is a 2000 c.c. overhead cam piston engine that not only delivers an excellent thrust of power which is common with luxury cars, but also delivers excellent fuel economy which is uncommon with many luxury cars. Transport Canada's comparative fuel consumption rating for the 626 5-speed is 8.4 litres/100 km (54 km/gal).*

Take durability. The 626 was built to eat up the road not vice versa. That's because extensive rust-fighting measures were taken. There's plastic separating the vulnerable metal-to-metal contact areas, electro-coated paint application on body parts, plastic inner front fender liners, a chip protective vinyl coating on the rocker panel and anti-corrosive oil sprayed inside key areas.

To prove how well a 626 is expected to stand up, Mazda stands behind a 3-year anti-perforation warranty.

Last but not nearly least, the 626 inludes luxury standard features that are anything but standard.

Like orthopedically contoured front bucket seats with a lumbar support and height adjustment in the driver's seat. Versatile split rear seats where either or both seats fold down for more trunk space. Plush velour interior. AM/FM stereo. Electric clock. Electric trunk release. 5-speed transmission. Rear window defroster. Styled steel wheels. Tinted glass. Map pockets. And more.

So if you want to own a car that will be known for all the great things great cars are known for except a stiff price, take a serious look at the Mazda 626. In either the 4-door sedan version or 2-door hardtop. To see how affordable the new Mazda 626 really is, see your nearest Mazda dealer.

*Your mileage will vary depending on the type of driving you do. your driving habits, your car's condition and optional equipment.

The new Mazda 626.

Give the mall a fair trial

Predictably, downtown merchants have condemned the city's proposal to make Government Street an experimental pedestrian mall this summer by closing it to vehicles. Their complaints are in fact a continuation of their fight of several years ago when the concept of a pedestrian mall was placed before civic politicians.

At that time, city council agreed that Government Street should be freed of traffic and converted to a genuine pedestrian mall. But downtown businessmen persuaded the city to compromise and, even as construction was about to start, tried to stall the project.

When the furore finally ended, Government Street had wider sidewalks and two lanes of traffic. In other words, it was an inconvenience to drivers but not a true mall for pedestrians. This fell far short of former mayor Peter Pollen's original proposal almost a decade ago, modelled on malls he had seen in several European cities.

Copenhagen, Munich and Amsterdam have attractive "walking streets" where cars are prohibited — and retail stores flourish.

But one need not look to the continent for inspiration. Even in Canada formerly busy downtown streets have been transformed into even busier pedestrian malls. The Sparks Street mall in Ottawa is one of the best.

There are also examples where planners had to accommodate vehicular traffic in their designs — like Vancouver's Granville Street mall — with much less satisfactory results.

The concern of Government Street merchants is understandable. They're worried about traffic and bus service being diverted, about safety hazards, about the litter and noise from proposed concerts. Their real fear, of course, is that their businesses will suffer.

Unfortunately, "all or nothing" positions have been adopted on both sides.

A more workable compromise and a fairer test of the city's plan would be to make Government Street a pedestrian mall for perhaps two or three days a week, and open it up to traffic again the rest of the time.

Experience elsewhere suggests a pedestrian mall will be successful, and a side by side comparison of the alternatives should convince even the worst skeptics that malls really do work.

Judge politics, not personality

Canadians are hearing more about her and from her than they care to and, with her book soon to be released, she will be front page news for some time. If that isn't enough, she will also be telling all next month on various U.S. television talk shows.

In his column, Gwyn explores the relationship between the press and Margaret, how each feeds on the other to satisfy a particular need. That seems a fair comment, though it should be added that the press did not manufacture Margaret Trudeau and is not in a position to ignore her.

True, she has no discernible talent that makes her unique. The only thing that sets her apart from other women is that she is the wife of the prime minister of Canada. But that, like it or not, is more than sufficient reason to make her self-proclaimed deeds and misdeeds newsworthy.

The point where we must take issue with Gwyn is his argument that because (in his opinion) the prime minister's choice of wife was faulty, it therefore follows that Trudeau is unable to assess people or get along with them; it is in his judgment of people, not policies, that one finds the prime minister's fatal flaw.

Come, come, Mr. Gwyn. Would you have us believe that this same flaw exists in every man or woman who discovered after marriage that his or her beloved partners is something less — even much less — than anticipated?

If Canadians decide Trudeau should not be their leader, then surely it should be on the basis of his performance as prime minister — where there is plenty of scope for criticism — and not because of the actions of the woman he chose to marry.

RICHARD GWYN

A mutual exploitation pact

OTTAWA — In a column last week, Dennis Braithwaite of the Toronto Star berated the Canadian press for "shamefully neglecting" the full story of Margaret Trudeau.

Braithwaite wrote that, except by the coward's way out of reprinting articles from British and U.S. newspapers, we have been too timid to chase Margaret for interviews ourselves. As well, the stories themselves, "cast Margaret as the heavy, the prime minister as the blameless victim."

To try to apportion blame in any broken marriage is a fool's game. Outsiders never know what really goes on behind closed doors, and between sheets. Trudeau and Margaret still seem, in a magnificently contradictory way, to love each other. Yet each, surely, is too self-centered to have easily been a successful marriage partner to anyone.

Mrs. Trudeau has carried on a love-hate relationship with press.

Mutually profitable

Braithwaite's criticisms of the press have an edge to them, though. We have performed, most of the time, like moralizing voyeurs.

All along we have exploited Margaret fully as much as she has exploited us. We have given her what she, not so much a flower child as a television baby, so desperately needs — attention and the perishable status of a celebrity. She gives us what we always need — compulsively readable copy.

This mutually profitable bargain has broken down only once — when abnormally large profits, upwards of $500,000 depending upon whose hype you believe, were at stake. Last weekend, three representatives of an industry that regularly blathers on about the public's right to know, Margaret's British publisher and Montreal and New York companies which have bought the serial rights, went to court to argue that the public had no right to know, at least for the moment.

The court's decision that a "sizzler" of an interview Margaret had given CTV could not be broadcast before her book was out, will force us to wait a month before learning all the dirt. In the meantime, CTV reporters will have a month of being in-the-know cocktail party lions.

Amid this tackiness, there is some genuine tragedy. The children, for one thing. At seven, Justin probably now can himself read, and certainly will be told by his schoolmates, that his mother, when she spotted Prince Andrew, "had to keep reminding myself he was 16", and that his father, his only parent now, blackened his mother's eye, or that she said he did.

Margaret herself for another. It's phoney to go on and on about her innocent vulnerability. Sure she's a naif, but one shrewd enough to get a prime minister to marry her by the nervy device of asking him and to be able to flog her experiences to the press.

The tragedy about the press' joint exploitation venture with Margaret is that we have entered into this bargain with someone who does not know what she is doing. In her frantic extravagances, Margaret seems a familiar doomed type: Zelda Fitzgerald, the wife of the American novelist Scott Fitzgerald; Carolyn Lamb, whose marriage to 19th century British prime minister Lord Melbourne collapsed amid the scandal of her affair with Lord Byron.

We can't ignore the story, of course. Readers want to read about it even if, after doing so, they turn around and criticize the press for printing the stuff. Anyway, Margaret can be neither shut up nor is she capable of shutting herself up.

We have, though, ignored the politics of the story. We have pretended that the sundering of the marriage of the prime minister has no more political significance than the melodramatic uncouplings of Sonny and Cher.

At work here is the entrenched press tradition that a politician's private behavior should be treated as something quite unrelated to his public performance. It's a sound as well as gentlemanly tradition. Mackenzie King's communications with his dead mother did not, on the evidence, have the least effect upon his functioning as prime minister.

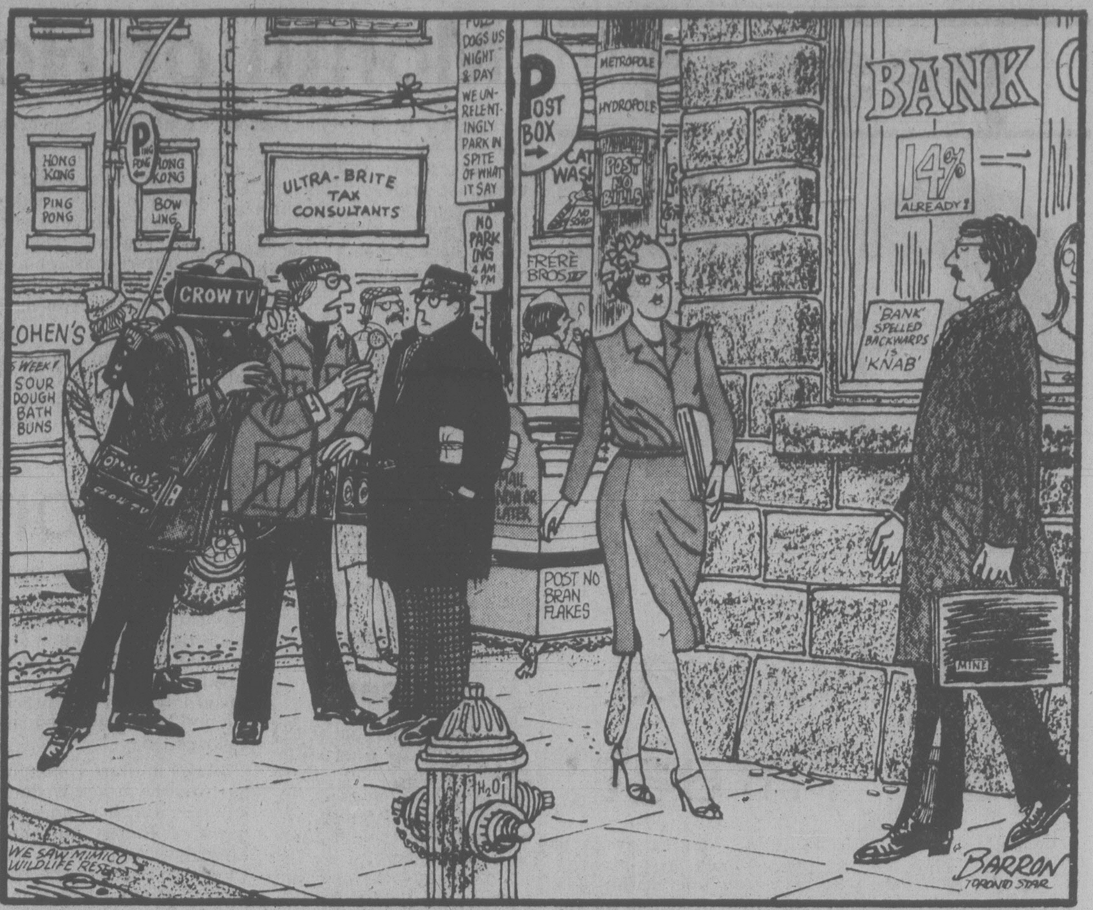
In one crucial respect, though, the case of Trudeau and Margaret is different. The issue isn't who did what to whom once married, but that they ever married at all.

Ignores human nature

In the single most important decision of his life, Trudeau, quite obviously, made the worst possible decision. Many men in their 50s turn to girls in their 20s; some, a minority though, marry them; few, very few, can have married a 20-year-old so clearly miscast for the kind of 50-year-old that Trudeau then was. The choice itself reveals an ignorance, an unnerving one in a political leader, of human nature.

Bad judgment about people rather than bad policies always has been the question mark on Trudeau's record. Cabinet ministers quitting who could have been persuaded to stay. Bilingualism misapplied so that it needlessly polarized the country. Federal-provincial bickering caused more by conflicts of personality than by conflicts of policy.

It is this connection between Trudeau the private person and Trudeau the public politician that the press, if anything, has shamefully neglected. By timing her book to the eve of an election, Margaret has forced Canadians to face this point. Her purpose, no doubt, was purely to make a buck. In the process, though, she may have done at last what she seems to have spent the past three years trying to do — to hurt Trudeau.



". . . yeah, right, but in spite of your opinion that they're all a bunch of phoney posturers, vain over-paid blithering idiots, misbegotten buffoons, trivial, laughable numbskulls, imbecilic fatuous, imprudent turkeys and crybaby spoiled brats . . . who do you think you'll vote for in the upcoming election . . . ?"

E. D. Ward-Harris

In a couple of months Ivy's bookshop will be celebrating its 15th anniversary and I suddenly thought: "Where would we be if we did not have our very special book reviewer, Mr. Edward Ward-Harris?"

Ward-Harris

Any ordinary mortal after reviewing books for over 25 years would usually become cynical and even sarcastic with the mountain of rubbish that is published today but we always know he will be fair. We have relied on his excellent judgment all these years.

There are at least 10,000 titles published each year and the catalogues get larger and larger so that is why I feel we owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Ward-Harris. We all do have our areas of disagreement but the over-all service that he supplies is most impressive. Over the years my customers and other booksellers have been high in their praise, too, but we all seem to forget in our too busy lives to simply write a warm "thank you" to a very exceptional man. May he keep up the good work; it does not go unrewarded. — Ivy M. Mickelson, Ivy's Bookshop, 1507 Wilmot Place.

A better way

With food prices up over 30 per cent and beef up over 70 per cent and no end of this runaway inflation in sight, it is time to think of drastic measures.

Our standard of living is rapidly declining in what is supposed to be one of the richest areas in the world. The pensioners, handicapped, people on social assistance etc. have had the "enormous" increase of about eight per cent to nine per cent over the same period.

It is heartbreaking to see people in the markets looking at meat and vegetables and then walking away in despair at the prices they just cannot afford. These fixed income and minimum wage families must spend 90 per cent of their income on food and shelter and even at this it is third class food.

The whole thing has gone too far, is uncontrollable under our "free" enterprise system and our only real hope is to wipe it out completely and bring the country into a planned and controlled economy.

People actually ate better in Dickens' times and far better prior up to the Second World War.

Where is the progress and the better life under capitalism? It's all baloney and we can't even afford that. There is and must be a better way of life. — P. Simpson, 2536 Forbes Street.

No spy needed

We do not need an alderman skulking behind trees to bring to our attention the appalling lack of productivity on the part of the majority of CUPE outside workers.

Any passerby will note that, depending on the size of the gang, there will invariably be one or two older men working diligently while two or three younger ones stand around, not deigning to go through the motions even of supervising.

It should be cause for great concern that they are so blatant about it. They make it perfectly obvious that they are not in the least concerned about public opinion. Considering the public's apathy it is no wonder they feel this way. To add insult to injury they have the unmitigated gall to demand, on top of exorbitant pay increases, a further two per cent productivity increase.

Our elected officials need to realize that they set the standards and that CUPE members are to abide by the rules. It is our council, not CUPE, who administers our municipality. Just as we, the electors, can vote an alderman in or out of office, so also should council be empowered to dispense with the services of non-productive personnel.

The alderman in question deserves our praise for having the courage of his convictions and he has every right to demand an apology from the union for their public reactions to his crusade, if it can be designated as such. Spying it cannot be called. — V. R. Turner, 4560 Viewmont Drive.

A little paradise

I spent my high school years at St. Ann's Academy and was quite heartbroken when they closed it down.

I still remember the days I spent walking the well-kept grounds during recess and lunch break. The holly bushes and grounds were so well taken care of that I used to pretend I was in paradise.

I notice they are debating a use for the St. Ann's site. Wouldn't it be nice if they decided to renovate St. Ann's into a residence for lower income old age pensioners? The residents themselves could attend to the upkeep of the grounds and most likely would want to have little gardens of their own. It would be a dream come true for some of the pensioners and it would also solve the problem for its use. — Jeanette I. Barrett, Victoria.

Railway artifacts

The museum of northern British Columbia in Prince Rupert is re-organizing exhibits, part of which involves the creation of a new display area centered around the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian National railroads. Prince Rupert, as the Pacific terminus for the GTP from 1914 to 1921 and the CNR after that, owes a significant part of its development to these companies.

We are attempting to obtain items that will help to illustrate the historical importance of these railroads. In particular, we are searching for articles such as tools, switching and signal lamps, office equipment and furniture, old tickets, promotional posters and pamphlets, telegraph equipment, clothing from this early period (including hats, coats, shirts, pants, boots), photographs or any other items that could be used in preparing displays.

We hope some of your readers may be able to help us. — M. J. Patterson, Curator, Museum of Northern B.C. Box 669, Prince Rupert, B.C. V8J 3S1.

A fine article

I would like to congratulate Stewart Lang on the article Fur-Buying Public Ignoring Critics in your Jan. 24 issue.

The article is based on fact. Anti-trap groups, particularly the B.C. based group, Association for the Protection of Furbearing Animals, play games on emotion, a misinformed public and the fraudulent display of animals having human characteristics on television.

The B.C. trapper works under the most humane set of regulations in Canada, and is exposed to one of the best trapper education programs teaching the most modern, humane trapping systems known to man.

The B.C. Trappers' Association works closely with the more responsible humane groups such as the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies and the Canadian Association for Humane Trapping.

Thank you, Stewart Lang, for the obvious research you put into this article. — Ron Lancour, Vice President, B.C. Trapper's Association, Horsefly, B.C.

Adolescent hangup

While no defender of church bureaucracies, I consider it a pity that the fundamentals of spirituality common to both genuine Christianity and others of the world's religions seem never to have dented Paul Speck's consciousness (Weekend, March 3).

Like Speck, I experienced monastic life for a year in 1959-1960 and subsequently left the church in a rebellion against bureaucratic hypocrisy — but never have failed to consider that year as one of the happiest and most valuable of my life.

His article Confessions of an Ex-priest contained little objective truth about religious life, but appeared to me the true confessions of one still trying to overcome an unrecognized adolescent hangup concerned with authority figures. — Daniel J. Koenig, 3869 Persimmon Drive.

Discretion lacking

Regarding the March 6 Times report of the Calve murder trial (Girl Probably Died Face-Down: Doctor), I find your explicit reporting of certain medical details in very poor taste, and think that you should have used some discretion in choosing pertinent facts for publication.

This girl's death is a tragedy for her family and friends. Reporting these facts in such a hardcore manner only serves to bring more anguish to their hearts. While it is necessary that every shred of evidence be brought to trial, the general public does not decide innocence or guilt.

My question is, what purpose has your explicit reporting served? I would think you could have at least left this young girl some dignity in death. In my opinion, this is not responsible journalism. — Mrs. S. Constable, 5267 Patricia Bay Highway.

Save the pukas

Many environment-conscious citizens are protesting the seal harvest off the eastern coast of Canada. But few, if any, realize that there is a hunt occurring at the same time which makes the seal hunt look like a Sunday garden party. I refer to that horrendous crime against the animal kingdom known as the puka shell hunt.

This insensitive slaughter of baby puka shell creatures is supported by the state of Hawaii and allowed by the American government in Washington. The insensitive hunters go about their grisly task by separating the baby puka shell creature from its mother. The hunters then use their clubs to viciously knock the gift of life from the baby creatures, while the mother watches helplessly.

I have seen this crime with my own eyes and though it may seem incredible that such a hunt could occur, it does. A group of concerned people (of which I am proud to be a member) decided to create an organization to combat this terrible slaughter. The organization known as FOCLIPS — Friends of Creature Living Inside Puka Shells — is determined to stop this senseless slaughter. By lobbying politicians and world public opinion, FOCLIPS is pressuring the American government to put a final stop to this hunt.

But we need funds to do this and I appeal for donations in order to save the puka shell creatures. Remember, puka shells are used for cosmetic purposes only, such as bracelets and necklaces and serve no vital purpose. Please boycott all stores selling puka shells and also boycott American goods. Only with group pressure can we save the baby puka shell creatures from a horrendous fate. — David M. Nonen, 3-33 Menzies Street.

P.S. Members of FOCLIPS are in Hawaii at this very moment using our funds donated to paint the baby puka shells so as to render the shells useless.

Pension plan is sound

By GEOFFREY STEVENS

OTTAWA — Few subjects within the federal domain are as misunderstood, and as engulfed in misinformation, as the pension arrangements the government has for its employees.

A good deal of the misunderstanding emanates from Colin Brown's National Citizens' Coalition. This group has waged a strident newspaper advertising campaign to persuade the public that the government's pension funds are so unsound actuarially and their benefits and indexing provisions so outrageously generous that the country will be bled white.

"A pile of rubbish," is the way Treasury Board President Judd Buchanan (who, like Mr. Brown, is both an insurance man and from London, Ont.) describes the citizens' coalition campaign. And he's right.

There are problems with the superannuation scheme, the most serious being the cost of the indexing provisions (which are designed to offset inflation for retired employees), unduly generous treatment for people taking early retirement, and a loophole (known as Reisman, as in Simon, Loophole) which enables an employee to retire just before the end of a year and get a full year's cost-of-living indexing a couple of days later. These problems require a certain amount of fine tuning, but not a fundamental reconstruction of the scheme. The government has legislation, Bill C-12, currently before a Commons committee, to correct the problems.

Much of the ammunition for the critics comes from a technical study, prepared by Tomenson-Alexander Ltd., which was submitted to the government in December, 1977, and made public the following March. The firm made a number of assumptions about inflation and interest rates, salary increases and retirement ages, did some projections, and came up with a calculation that the pension accounts would require a transfusion of $5.8-billion to make them actuarially sound as of March 31, 1978.

Certain points are worth bearing in mind. The government is not a private employer. The public service and armed forces superannuation accounts are book entries, part of the national debt (at present, they account for more than one-quarter of the gross national debt). In effect, the government borrows from the accounts and pays interest; the last fiscal year, this interest rate was 7.61 per cent.

The superannuation accounts are divided into two funds: a main fund and a supplementary fund (to cover indexation). The only actuarial problem is with the supplementary fund. When it was set up in 1970, employees contributed 0.5 per cent of salary, to be matched by the government. This was subsequently raised to 1 per cent (matched). Even so, the supplementary fund is inadequate to adjust pensions to an inflation rate of 9 per cent. The deficiency has to be made up out of the main fund.

The main fund, however is embarrassingly healthy. Between 1965 and 1978, the balance in the main public service superannuation account rose from $2.2 billion to $9.1billion. In the 1977-78 fiscal year, interest alone added $615 million to the fund, while the benefits paid out came to only $252 million. For the armed forces fund, interest in the same year came to $289 million and benefits paid to $208 million. The margin of safety is large, indeed.

Using the same assumptions that Tomenson-Alexander made (average inflation rate, 6 per cent; average interest, 8.25 per cent; average salary increase, 8.5 per cent; average retirement age, 61.5 years), the main public service fund will, if left unchanged, swell to a balance of $40 billion by 1990 and to $1,200 billion by the year 2025. That's $1.2 trillion.

Finally, there are three things worth remembering the next time you read a National Citizens' Coalitin ad. The government is not hiding anything; all the figures are public and have been debated in Parliament. Yes, civil service pensions are generous, but they are also expensive for the employees. Bureaucrats contribute 7.5 per cent of salary — much more than most workers in the private sector. There is plenty of money in the government's books — far more than enough — to pay for the pensions.

'Flexibility' could be their best asset

By BERNARD D. NOSSITER
The Washington Post

LONDON — In Britain a Labor government struggles to contain wage demands and squeezes the money supply in conservative fashion.

In Sweden a "bourgeois" coalition last year poured out a flood of subsidies and spending to preserve the full employment heritage of its national rivals, the Social Democrats.

In Denmark Anker Joergensen, a former union chief and now Social Democratic premier, brings the Liberals, his nominal competitors, into a coalition to withstand pay demands.

These role reversals are a common-place in northern Europe's tier of stable democracies. Programs, platforms, manifestos give way in office to stubborn facts of life. Fiorello LaGuardia, the New York mayor who once insisted there was neither a Democratic nor a Republican way of assuring a city's water supply, would have enjoyed the spectacle.

In an earlier time the magazine The Economist coined the useful label "Butskellism," an amalgam of Tory chancellor R.A. (Rab) Butler and his Labor shadow, Hugh Gaitskell. It implied that their economic policies — as distinct from rhetoric — were indistinguishable.

Kept lid on

This sort of thing is not unknown in the United States, where the less partisan long ago observed that the behavior of Democrats and Republicans in the White House was roughly similar.

A Republican, Herbert Hoover, launched a new interventionist deal with the Reconstruction Finance Corp.; a Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, briefly met but was little influenced by Keynes and kept a lid on spending until the war. More recently Republican Richard Nixon imposed price and wage controls, while Democrat Jimmy Carter curbed social outlays.

The naively cynical will say that this simply reflects what everybody knows, that politicians are opportunists. They might recall the American folk wisdom that platforms are to run on, not to stand on.

But this is incomplete, too shallow an explanation. A stable society, one whose institutions are reasonably secure against overthrow, will not move abruptly right or left when office changes hands. Its citizens are mostly agreed on fundamental issues, at home and abroad. Its politicians are limited to competing for office through a debate over questions at the margin.

In all the stable democracies of Europe's northern tier — Britain, Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Holland — this broad consensus exists. This agreement is a necessary condition for stability and helps explain the undramatic behavior of parties.

Domestically, there is a preference for private property, buttressed by a scaffolding of law. Market forces are relied upon to set most levels of price and output. But there is no mystical attachment to either and no inconsistency seen in permitting the state to monopolize public utilities and run some industries or corporations.

There is widespread agreement that the state must insure minimum standards of health, housing and a tolerable old age. There is equally broad agreement that the state must intervene to keep the economy on something approaching an even course, through tax, spending and money policies.

Finally, in all the stable northern democracies there is a general conviction that the good life depends on more or less free expression of opinion and equal access, in theory, to the political and judicial machinery.

There are challenges to all these propositions from fringe groups on the left or right. But even in the four countries with proportional representation — all but Britain — the challengers elect only a handful of legislators.

Another trait of stable democracies is that they are essentially at one with their history. There is no pervasive unease, guilt or shame, acknowledged or denied. The lack of this quality still raises questions about the future of democracy in West Germany.

For the first quarter century after the war the three large and less solid democracies — Germany, Italy and France — led the West in an outpouring of goods and services. But their more politically stable neighbors also enjoyed record if less striking prosperity, as did the United States. Growth was interrupted only by brief and shallow recessions. Virtually everyone who sought work had a job. Prices crept up 1 or 2 per cent a year.

The last five years have changed all this. Growth has been slow and uneven. Jobless totals have climbed everywhere, except in Scandinavia

CARTER

JOERGENSEN
. . . coalition

No nation, with the recent exception of the Germans, has been immune from an inflationary disease that each year clips one-twelfth or one-tenth from the value of the currency. And yet the fabric has held together. Even more curious, three southern European nations, Greece, Spain and Portugal, threw off or escaped from totalitarian regimes to work out a recognizably Democratic order.

Heavy blows

There is another way in which the bleak performance of the last half-decade can be seen. It may be that consensus politics survived because citizens sensed that the economic order has demonstrated astonishing resilience.

The system has absorbed without catastrophe some heavy blows. The international monetary order — fixed exchange rates (except when they were changed) based on the dollar as reserve currency — was abolished in August, 1971. In its place emerged a non-system of floating rates (except when they are supported). A drastic increase in oil prices created dramatic surpluses in oil countries and matching deficits in the West. In time, oil-country appetites for Western arms and other things ran down both surpluses and deficits.

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development named some wise men to see if the system was fundamentally unsound. They disarmingly concluded that, no, it was not, it had merely been victimized by a series of coincidences — oil, drought, sloppy fiscal and monetary policies.

The wise men barely touched on or ignored the central lessons of the last five years. This period laid bare the two strains that are the sources of continuing debate in the European democracies and are emerging on to centre stage in the United States.

One is internal — the power of large corporations and unions to resist all but the most disastrous fiscal and monetary policies and thus drive up prices and wages. In good times and bad, both groups tend to drive inflation forward at intolerale rates. Even a drastic curb on the money supply or government outlays need not stop them.

The inflationary potential of institutions enjoying near-monopoly power is a genuine threat to the stable consensus in Europe's northern tier, and the search for a solution is the major topic of debate.

(In northern Europe the share of the labor force with union cards is two to three times that in America. Moreover, Europe's giant corporations tend to be passive price-fixers, setting prices at a fixed rather than a rising percentage of labor costs. So the chief European focus inevitably is on restraining unions. In the United States, where union organization is relatively weak and corporations are more aggressive semi-monopolists, the pricing power of corporations is likely to become the dominant issue).

Abroad, the past five years have seen a new threat to stability, the emergence of genuinely developing nations. Brazil, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and even India are producing ships, steel, textiles and some machinery more cheaply than the traditional industrial states.

The first and inevitable political response is "lock the gates." So "voluntary" agreements, safety regulations, quotas, tariffs and, now, a new device, the minimum selling price, are all employed to shut the ports.

In the past it was fashionable to argue that closing markets to the Third World was dangerous, that somehow hordes of outraged Brazilians, Indians and Taiwanese would descend on the West. Nobody need believe this today.

Divide pie

But it is certainly arguable that a sullen Third World, resentful of sealed markets, could make the West and North a less comfortable place to live, could inspire dangerous adventures.

What then are the northern democracies' prospects for continued survival? A biologist might answer that it depends on their ability to adapt to changing circumstances. This suggests they must find some orderly, institutionalized way of dividing the pie.

They must abandon the belief that uninhibited collective bargaining is compatible with strong unions, that unfettered pricing power is consistent with industries dominated by a few firms. (One approach, reducing corporations and unions to innumerable competitors — anti-trust everywhere — is not on any serious European agenda).

The running debate in the northern tier over income policy, over giving workers a role in corporate decisions, pay and price restraint, guidelines and norms, all reflect this concern.

If obsolete and inefficient industries are preserved — a tempting strategy — a new burden will be placed on growth. In time, incomes that are now rising at a relatively slow rate will level off and ultimately decline.

It is not clear that the democratic consensus could stand such strains. Expectations may have been dampened in the past five years, but they have not been stifled. A steady fall in citizens' command over goods and services would inspire new politicians with fresh solutions and new followers. There is no reason to think they would find much value in competing on the traditional democratic grounds.

But resistance to change is strong. Corporate and union chiefs feel diminished when they must subject decisions they customarily make themselves to another body, social or governmental. No worker will readily accept the loss of a job or skill. This is why any shift is likely to take place slowly.

The resilience, the toughness of both the economic and political structure in the northern tier offers some grounds for belief that adaptation will be made. But only some.

A Hungarian proverb holds that the difference between an optimist and pessimist is that the pessimist is better informed. Or as Runyon's Sam the Ganef remarked, "I long ago came to the conclusion that all life is 6 to 5 against."

That old newness again

russell baker

NEW YORK — Woodrow Wilson gave us "the new freedom," Franklin Roosevelt "the new deal" and John Kennedy "the new frontier." Now Jimmy Carter summons us to "new foundations."

It does not make the pulse pound anymore, these bugle calls to newness. There has been too much "new" in recent times, and not only in politics. Almost invariably "new" has turned out to be either old or plastic. As a result, the word "new" has become an alarm signal that makes the wary suspect a fraud.

We had "the new left," which turned out to be nothing but the old left without a haircut, without a philosophy and without power. This was followed by "the new conservatism," which is indistinguishable from the old conservatism except for a tendency to talk graduate-student English, which is why its acolytes prefer to be called "neo-conservatives."

* * *

In the late 1960s we had "the new journalism," which George Orwell had been practising 30 years earlier. At one point back there we had "the new leisure," which was the old business of burning gasoline in search of good picnic spots.

Then "the new people" came along so we would have a change of gossip, and they turned out to be the same old new people who had been gossiped about for decades, except that they had switched from cocktails to narcotics.

Occasionally something authentically new does come along. Detergent was such a phenomenon. And, of course, since detergent really was new, they didn't have to call it "new." They simply called it "Tide."

After that, however, future detergents were called "the new washday product," and after that, "the new improved washday product," and after that, "the new washday miracle."

Every year brings "the new cars." They are usually the same old cars with higher price tags, which doesn't stop us from being enchanted by them, of course. Few things fulfil the American hunger for newness as completely as "the new car." A few years ago people who couldn't afford one could buy "New Car Smell" in an aerosol can to suffuse the used interios of their old jalopies with the scent of the Detroit production line.

I don't know what happend to "New Car Smell." Maybe they started calling it "the New New Car Smell" and alerted car owners to the fact that they were wasting money.

In talking about "new foundations," Carter was probably hoping to squeeze a last bit of political value out of the poor, tired, old "new," on the chance there might still be a little toothpaste left in the tube. There probably isn't, and reports of the speechwriting conference at which "new foundations" was coined indicated that even the White House people suspect "new" has had it.

* * *

"Can't we come up with something better?" one of them is said to have asked.

They couldn't, or at least didn't, and now they are stuck with "New Foundations," as a slogan to express a policy of cooling-off the economy. If the cooling-off gets out of hand and unemployment rises, as some economists forecast, we may hear people in the unemployment lines telling each other that they are being buried in "New Foundations."

Political catch-phrases are susceptible to back-firing like this when they are designed — as "New Foundations" is — to make static conservative policies sound dynamic. This is why conservatives usually shun the flashy slogan like a fen. They are born knowing the agonies their forebears suffered during the depression because Herbert Hoover was associated with promises to put "a chicken in very pot and a car in every garage."

* * *

For Carter, "New Foundations" looks on first inspection like a no-win battle cry. It is hard to conceive of a "new" anything that might serve the country beyond faintly suspicious boredom.

If he runs into political trouble in the lean months ahead, it might, however, become a phrase to haunt him. If he gets through to 1980 without political damage, he will still have to come up with a battle cry for his re-election campaign. "On to new improved foundations!" won't be a good choice. It would give his opponent an irresistible opening for a winning slogan: "Don't let 'em bore you to death — vote Republican!"

Asbestos Corp. dropped 1 to $43½, OPI Ltd. A 1 to $20½, Southam Inc. ¾ to $27, Greyhound Computer ¼ to $4 and Abitibi Paper ⅜ to $18⅝.

McIntyre Mines rose ¾ to $34½, Camflo Mines ¼ to $13⅜ and Brunswick Mining ¼ to $6¾. Brenda Mines fell ½ to $17¾ and Mattagami Lake Mines A ⅛ to $19½.

Canadian Superior Oil advanced 3½ to $105½, Numac Oil and Gas ⅞ to $31⅝ and Chieftain Development ¾ to $34. Sceptre Resources slipped ¼ to $7¾.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market chalked up a moderate gain today, with oil issues setting the pace.

Advances led declines by about a 5-to-3 margin in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Actively traded oil stocks included Gulf Oil, up 1 to $26; Texaco, ahead ½ to $25¾; Occidental Petroleum, up ⅜ to $20⅛; Pogo Producing, up 1 to $15, and Louisana Land and Exploration, ⅞ higher to $26½.

CBS fell 3¼ to $46¼. Late Wednesday the company estimated a 40 to 50 per cent decline in its first-quarter earnings.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were advanced slightly in moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange today. Bank of Montreal gained ⅛ at $23¾. Abitibi Paper lost ⅛ at $18¾, Brascan A ⅛ at $21⅝ and Hudson' Bay Co. ⅛ at $26¾. Among speculative issues, Basic Resources A. dropped ⅛ at $2¼ on a volume of 15,000 shares traded.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The London stock market, beset by inflation worries, dropped sharply lower near the close of moderate trading today. The Financial Times index was down 7.2 to 502.7 an hour before the close. Industrial issues declined although equity leaders were above the session's lows. Oil stocks moved higher, while gold shares were dull and mining financials mixed. Canadian issues eased.

Beaufort Drilling: $78 Million Goal

CALGARY (CP) — Dome Petroleum Ltd. has set up a new company to raise $78 million for summer drilling operations in the Beaufort Sea, a spokesman for Wood Gundy Ltd. says.

Terry Gibson said a preliminary prospectus has been filed with the Alberta Securities Commission seeking approval to sell 7,500 units in the new company, Beaufort Petroleum Investment Ltd., at $10,400 each. Up to 9,000 units culd be sold if demand warranted.

Last year, Dome raised $53.6 million through Beaufort Exploration Ltd., in its northern public drilling fund. Such a fund allows investors to write off their investment against their income.

Dome has said it plans to drill four new off-shore wells, while testing two previous discoveries and re-entering three earlier wells.

The proposed fund still must be approved by the securities commission here and in other jurisdictions where it would be marketed.

Capital Gains Rapped

The president of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants brought his campaign against the capital gains tax to Victoria Tuesday in hopes word will get back to Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa.

He told a meeting of the Men's Canadian Club of Victoria at the Strathcona Hotel he has been speaking out against what he calls the tax across Canada.

Shortly after his speech in Vancouver, Clark announced shares in Canadian controlled companies would be exempt from capital gains tax if his party wins the election.

Adams, a London accountant, said he hopes Trudeau will match that promise in the coming federal election campaign.

In fact, he hopes whoever forms the government will dismantle the whole capital gains tax program.

The tax has proved to be an albatross, he said, hindering economic growth and at the same time producing little revenue for the federal treasury.

He said a U.S. study shows governments can recapture lost revenues within three years if they are bold enough to end the capital gains tax.

If the tax is eliminated, there would be more expansion, more jobs, more profits. Within three years Ottawa would be getting more revenues from the income taxes on these increased profits and salaries than it would from capital gains taxes plus income taxes on a lower level of production.

It has resulted in a tax on inflation. The government taxes increase in value but most of that increase is due to inflation and is not a real gain. At the least, the government should change the law so only the net growth is subject to taxation.

For example, in practice, people have been declaring losses on stocks and gains on real estate transactions.

While the stock losses may be real, the real estate gains are illusory because some of the increased value has been due to inflation.

He said Ottawa should reverse its field and begin to offer incentives to growth.

In addition to ending the capital gains tax, he said, the government should encourage greater production and more overtime work.

For example, there should be no income tax on overtime beyond 40 hours in a week, he said.

When people agree to work extra hours, companies can use their plants to 100 per cent of capacity.

The present practice of closing doors at night because workers are not keen to go into overtime work is wasteful, he said.

Memorial To W.A.C.

A fund-raising campaign has been launched to establish a chair of public administration at the University of Victoria in honor of former premier W.A.C. Bennett.

Wesley Black, a former member of Bennett's cabinet, says the organizers of the W.A.C. Bennett Memorial Fund in Public Administration hope to raise $1 million. The money will be used to fund several prestigious fellowships to outstanding students at UVic's school of public administration.

Year of Child Plans Made

A group of 15 students from Greater Victoria and Sooke schools have banded together to form the Victoria International Year of the Child Youth Committee.

The United Nations has declared 1979 the International Year of the Child and the local committee is organizing five programs in this theme.

A youth seminar for Vancouver Island senior secondary school students will be held at the Lester B. Pearson College of the Pacific April 28 and 29.

An exhibition of arts and crafts will be organized with the theme Every Child Has The Right To Be Brought Up In A Spirit Of Peace And Universal Brotherhood.

Submissions for the exhibition should be sent in before April 23 to the Emily Carr Centre, 207 Government.

The theme may be expressed in painting, pottery, weaving, needlecrafts, prose, poetry, sculpture, photography, appliques, stained glass, leatherwork, batik, graphics, engraving, rug-making and other crafts.

The exhibition will be on view when the travelling show The Greatest Little Travelling Super Show For Young People visits Victoria in early May.

It will also be shown in conjunction with other IYC events.

The committee is also arranging a series of television programs to be shown on Channel 10 and will enter a float in the Victoria Day Parade.

During the spring and summer a waterways cleanup and tree-planting workathon will take place on the Colquitz River system.

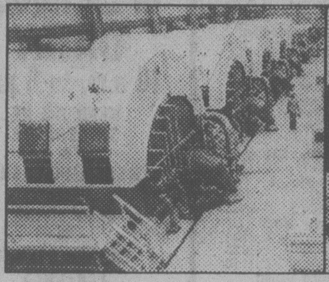
Information kits at $5 each have been prepared to help communities stimulate their thinking about the quality of life for children in British Columbia by the provincial IYC committee.

They can be obtained from the B.C. Council for the Family on the eighth floor of the Belmont Building at 614 Humboldt Street. Enquiries and requests should be made between 9 a.m. and noon on Tuesday mornings. The phone number is 387-3460.

IYC "Invest in Kids" buttons are also available in bulk for 50 cents each.

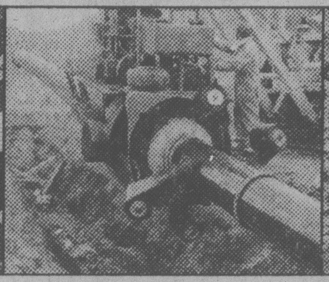
For every eligible man, woman and child in the province:

5 FREE SHARES IN THE BRITISH COLUMBIA RESOURCES INVESTMENT CORPORATION.

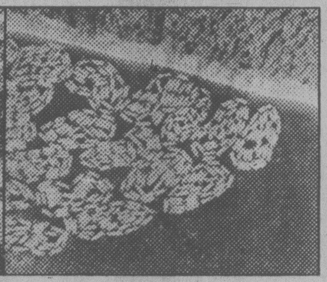


You will share in 81% of Canadian Cellulose.

You will share in oil and gas exploration rights in northeastern B.C.



You will share in 10% of Westcoast Transmission.



You will share in 100% of Kootenay Forest Products and Plateau Mills.

Ownership of our resource industries should be in the hands of individual British Columbians. To encourage this trend, your government is offering five free shares in the recently-formed British Columbia Resources Investment Corporation to every eligible resident of our province. Following are answers to the most important questions concerning this unique offer—

Who is eligible?

Every person who has lived in B.C. for the past year—and who holds or has qualified and applied for Canadian citizenship—is eligible for five free shares in B.C.R.I.C. Those 16 years of age and over should apply for shares on their own behalf. For children under 16, application should be made by the mother or guardian. Infants, born in B.C. on or before June 15, 1979 and resident here since birth, also qualify for free shares. Application, again, should be made by the mother or guardian.

Free shares are also available to those ordinarily resident in B.C. who have been temporarily absent from the province during the 12 months immediately preceding the offer, provided such persons are otherwise eligible.

What do B.C.R.I.C. shares represent?

The B.C. Resources Investment Corporation is the holding company for shares held by the province in a variety of B.C. resource industries and enterprises. B.C.R.I.C. holds 81% of the common shares of Canadian Cellulose, 100% of the common shares of Kootenay Forest Products and Plateau Mills, 10% of the common shares of Westcoast Transmission, plus oil and gas rights in a vast area of northeastern B.C.—investments transferred at a value of over $151 million. B.C.R.I.C. shares represent partial ownership of this whole range of enterprises.

How can I apply?

Application forms are available at banks, trust companies, credit unions and investment dealers throughout B.C. When making application, you must present two of the following pieces of identification: a.) driver's licence; b.) Social Insurance card; c.) Medical Plan card. If you are 65 years of age or over, a Pharmacare card is sufficient proof of identity.

Mothers or guardians applying for children under 16 are required to furnish only a medical plan number or a birth certificate for such children. Young people, 16 and over, who have not yet obtained such identification, may establish their identity by presenting their birth certificate or other acceptable identification—in person—at the office of their local Government Agent (or, in the Lower Mainland, at their local Motor Vehicle Branch office).

Those unable to apply in person may delegate a suitable individual to act on their behalf—that person must utilize a Power of Attorney form, available where applications are made.

When does the offer expire?

To take advantage of the free share offer, you must submit your application by June 15, 1979. Should there be extenuating circumstances—absence from the province during the application period, for example—an appeal may be made to the Ministry of Finance by September 30, 1979.

When do I receive my shares?

Distribution of free shares by B.C.R.I.C. will begin immediately after British Columbia Day, August 6, 1979. The person making application has until September 30, 1979 to pick up the shares where application was made.

Can I buy additional shares?

Yes. If you qualify for free shares, you have the option of purchasing up to 5,000 additional shares at a price substantially below their underlying value. This price will be specified on your application form.

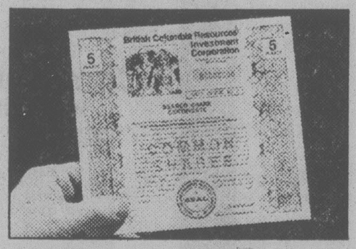
No individual or corporation may own more than 1% of the voting shares of B.C.R.I.C. (although pension funds may own up to 3%). Corporations and pension funds, however, are not allowed to participate in the initial share issue.

Will I be able to sell my shares?

Yes. Stock market trading in shares is expected to commence shortly after the distribution date . . . and at this point, a "market value" will be established. However, it is hoped that a majority of British Columbians will not only retain, but enlarge, their share holdings. In this way, they will participate directly in the continued expansion of our resource industries, while ensuring that control of these industries remains in B.C.

What if my shares are lost or stolen?

The free shares will be "bearer" shares—in other words, owned by and saleable by the bearer, and not registered to any individual. Therefore, there is no protection against loss or theft. However, each block of 100 shares or more will be registered in the name of an individual shareholder (and thus protected). Because registering takes additional time, persons planning to purchase blocks of shares for registration should submit their applications as early as possible. Note: only the holders of registered shares will be eligible to vote on company matters and receive financial information and other communications from the company.



How will B.C.R.I.C. use its money?

All money invested in the B.C. Resource Investment Corporation will be used to further its investment objectives, including the development of resource industries within British Columbia.

Other questions?

B.C.'s Mac-Blo Action Rapped

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Premier Bennett set a dangerous precedent when he stepped in to prevent Canadian Pacific from gaining 51 per cent control of MacMillan Bloedel, Investment Dealers Association (IDA) chairman James Pitblado said Tuesday.

The dangers are two-fold, he said in an interview here.

First, the provincial government is saying investors are not free to buy or sell their shares as they see fit and thus it interferes with the working of the capital market.

And second, it creates a wall around the province when the economy must work on a national basis in order to thrive.

Pitblado said he would not discuss the intervention in detail because the IDA does not involve itself in takeover battles. But in viewing the action as a principle of government policy, the IDA opposed it and would oppose any similar action by a provincial government.

"We must have capital flow nationally. We're Canadians."

The takeovers have arisen because stocks have been underpriced in the 1970s and it is relatively inexpensive to buy up valuable companies.

Pitblado said there is nothing wrong with companies' buying up their own shares or the shares of other companies when it is in their interest to do so.

What Ottawa must watch for is foreign capital buying up Canadian firms, he said, and the IDA supports the existence of the Foreign Investment Review Agency.

While indirectly criticizing Premier Bill Bennett for intervening in the CP takeover bid, Pitblado praised him for his plan to issue free shares in the B.C. Resource Investment Corporation to all citizens of the province.

The result would be a greater interest in the working of the stock market and, if thousands of people bought more shares as a result of this new interest, there would be millions of dollars more for Canadian growth.

The Toronto financier said Canadians used to put about 10 per cent of their savings in stocks but this fell to a low of two per cent in 1977. It rose to four per cent last year and should be even higher in 1979.

Improving taxation laws had brought renewed interest in the market.

Among the changes, he said, was greater flexibility in the capital gains laws.

He said the capital gains tax did severe damage to the Canadian economy and now Ottawa is beginning to dismantle the program brick by brick.

Pitblado was in Victoria to meet officials of the provincial government and to discuss laws governing stock trading.

Spur-Use Urged For Display Trains

Three museum trains are coming to Victoria this summer and it's time to pin down a location to properly display them, says John Cooper.

Cooper, who sparked a campaign to keep E&N passenger service between here and Victoria going, said two of the visiting trains will be lengthy.

The provincial museum's Good Time Express, consisting of steam locomotive 1077 and 16 coaches, will be here May 19 to 21 and the federal government's $16 million history of Canada Discovery Train, also about 17 pieces, will be here in August.

The third train, which arrives in July, will be smaller and consist of some steam-era relics sponsored by the provincial government.

"The railway (E&N) doesn't have adequate facilities for display," Cooper said.

PERSIAN RUG SALE
(Late arrival of Shipment #A.B. 6055 From Vancouver Home Show—First Public Viewing and Sale)

IF: There is a Persian rug on the floor. What does that tell you about its owner? Probably that he is well off. Also, he'll be a secure person because a Persian Rug is a good saleable item in these inflation ridden times. It is easier to sell expensive Oriental carpets today in a sluggish economy than it was in the 1950's and 60's although the average price of an authentic Oriental carpet has greatly increased in recent years. An Oriental rug is an excellent hedge against inflation because its value increases constantly. The reason for this is the increased wealth and industrialization of Mid-East countries. Weavers and master artists are leaving their traditional work and are entering industrial employment. In addition the Shah of Iran had introduced compulsory education thereby effectively eliminating the employment of children in rug weaving, says Ejaz Khan of Bokhara Carpet Palace Ltd. Mr. Kahn will be dislaying an excellent selection of Persian carpets & rugs that will appeal to the discriminating and budget conscious home decorator and art lovers, offered to you at Bargain Prices. Mr. Khan invites you to come and investigate the opportunities provided by Oriental carpets, to make an investment that safeguards your money and provides you with luxury as it appreciates.

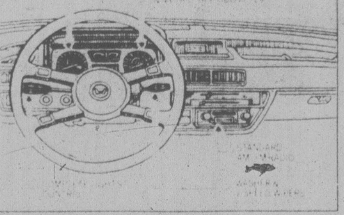
TWO LUXURY CARS THAT AREN'T OVERWEIGHT, SHORT OF BREATH AND OUT OF SHAPE.



Into the world of luxury cars that perform like marshmallows on wheels, Honda introduces a new concept: two luxury cars that perform like performance cars. The Honda Accord Hatchback and the new 4-door Honda Accord Sedan.

Such features as multi-adjustable, cloth bucket seats, AM/FM radio, tinted glass, fitted carpeting and interior hood and trunk releases are usually associated with fine luxury cars. These features are standard equipment on an Accord. And when you examine one and take note of the fit, the finish and the attention to detail, you'll have to agree that Honda Accords are built like luxury cars of the highest standards.

If the impeccable finish and the quality of the car is not enough to take your breath away, then the quality of driving one is. Because the beauty of an Accord is much more than skin deep.

Front wheel drive improves traction and control. It is, of course, standard on Accords. As is rack and pinion steering and a 5-speed transmission. And a power assisted dual-circuit braking system with front discs. The Accords also come with fully independent MacPherson Strut suspension on all four wheels. This provides a ride befitting a luxury car and handling capabilities befitting a performance car. And right in front of the driver are all the controls and instruments (see illustration) that are needed to let him know what's happening while he's driving. In total, the Accords are perhaps the best combination of luxury and performance available anywhere at anywhere near their price.

And now, is one of the best times to see them, because right now Honda is celebrating its 10th Anniversary in Canada. So you may have a chance to win a Honda mini-bike, or a Honda 10th Anniversary Civic, or an Accord or even a Honda Prelude. It's all a piece of cake. Ask your Honda dealer for details. Contest ends May 31, 1979.

Fed Protest Wednesday

The B.C. Federation of Labor will hold the ninth in a series of demonstrations to protest against recent amendments to the Essential Services Disputes Act here next Wednesday.

The rally will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Newcombe auditorium.

The speakers will include federation president Jim Kinnaird, federation secretary-treasurer Dave MacIntyre, Norm Richards, president of the B.C. Government Employees Union, Andrew Stewart, president of the Public Service Alliance of Canada and Ray Mercer, B.C. director for the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The federation began the rallies in January and had originally planned to have the Victoria one on the same day as the opening of the legislature.

The federation is protesting against an amendment proclaimed Jan. 5 which brings virtually all public sector employees under the umbrella of the essential services legislation.

Organized labor feels this effectively removes free collective bargaining rights from more than 34,000 public employees.

Regionalism The Enemy: Trudeau

By PATRICK NAGLE

VANCOUVER (FP) — Canadians must put their country ahead of their regional and local interests, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said here Wednesday night.

"Think Canada first," he told a partisan ethnic crowd at the Italian Cultural Centre. "This country must survive first."

The Prime Minister chose to ignore the advice of newly-re-elected Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed who has said Trudeau should not campaign on energy policy and Alberta's increasing wealth.

"We have an energy crisis," Trudeau said, "Alberta wants to sell at the highest price. Ontario doesn't want to pay high prices for oil that's already in the ground and should be available to all Canadians.

"They don't agree and it takes a great deal of understanding to try and find some compromise."

"We can't pretend there are no problems," he said. "The French and the English don't agree. Quebec and the other provinces don't agree.

"The big problems are: How do we keep the country strong? And what priority do we assign to the demands of each province?

"We must ensure that the big issues that pit one province against another are not settled in local or regional interests," Trudeau said.

His speech recapped the main themes his government has stressed in the past year and he appealed to the ethnic sensibilities of the crowd to fulfil themselves as individuals.

This led Trudeau to his promise for a constitutional Bill of Rights even though there is no bill concerning constitutional rights before the House of Commons at this time.

"Constitutional projects are not lawyers' games," Trudeau said. "A bill of rights is so basic when we are living in times when institutions and democracies are under attack."

When informed that Lougheed had taken 74 seats in the provincial general election, Trudeau said:

"My congratulations to Mr. Lougheed. It was a close election, but the result is no surprise."

Before the meeting started, Trudeau dined in Chinatown with a selection of Liberal Party candidates and officials. Those attending the dinner said the Prime Minister talked politics and strategy but gave no clue about an election date.

As he entered the hall, Trudeau was hassled briefly by a group of young people representing the Solitary Confinement Abolition project.

Trudeau's visit to Vancouver is aimed at shoring up the party's softening position in advance of the general election. He is to address a $125-a-plate dinner at the Hotel Vancouver tonight.

The Liberals control eight seats in the current Parliament but recent polls indicate that not all these are safe.

In addition, British Columbia will gain five new seats under redistribution.

14% Inflation Possible, Expert Warns

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Canada's inflation rate could hit 12 per cent or higher this year, Vancouver taxation expert Jacques Barbeau said Wednesday.

Canada's high debt financing and poor economic performance means the trouble will continue during the year, he told the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce in a speech at the Empress.

He said the economy of the U.S. is also troubled and that country faces a resurgence of inflation this year.

The Canadian rate will be about one or two percentage points above the U.S. inflation level and therefore will be 10 to 12 per cent, he said.

The Canadian prime lending rate will hold at its present level of 12 per cent and would rise, rather than fall, when it makes its next move.

"One should not be surprised to see a prime lending rate of 14 to 16 per cent by the end of 1979."

The Canadian dollar will also remain troubled during 1979, he predicted. It will not rise substantially and might dip below the 85-cent mark once again in the latter part of the year.

Gold will remain strong, he said, and the price will hold firm or increase.

"A price rise is likely."

Barbeau said he would not be surprised to see some form of foreign exchange controls introduced in Canada, but not before the federal election.

He said the forecast is based upon an assumption of continuing weakness in the Canadian dollar and a continuing tourist deficit. Despite the strength in the Victoria tourist economy, Canada as a whole had not been performing well.

In 1978, with a devalued Canadian dollar, the nation still had a tourist deficit of $1.72 billion, up 4.8 per cent from a deficit of $1.64 billion in 1977, he said.

Canadians look upon trips to Palm Springs, Hawaii and Florida as a necessity, despite the loss in converting Canadian funds to American dollars.

The forecast of inflation in the range of 10 to 14 per cent surprised the audience of more than 200.

They were asked to choose among six per cent, eight per cent, 10 per cent and 12 per cent.

A plurality of 42 per cent selected an inflation rate of 10 per cent. Six per cent predicted six per cent, 36 per cent said eight per cent and the remaining 16 per cent said 12 per cent.

On a separate question, the Victoria business community was cool to the idea of a fixed exchange rate to be paid on American dollars during the coming peak tourist season.

Of 218 who filled out the questionnaire at the meeting, only 41 per cent favored the idea of a fixed rate while 59 per cent were opposed.

Informed that the bank rate Wednesday was 16 per cent, a plurality of 45 per cent said they would offer the full bank rate. Another 31 per cent said they would be willing to pay 15 per cent, or one point below the bank rate. Nine per cent said they would offer some other rate, presumably below 15 per cent, while the remaining 14 per cent said they would be willing to pay something between 17 and 20 per cent.

Every day, Murray Barnes goes to jail.

Not the kind of occupation most of us would choose to spend 8 hours a day at. For any amount of money.

So what is it about the job that has made Murray stay with it for over 12 years?

It certainly isn't the long hours spent on the tiers.

Or the lonely night shifts in the protective custody wing.

Or living with the constant tension that an explosive situation could erupt at any time.

For Murray Barnes the satisfaction comes from knowing he's doing a difficult job. And doing it well.

It also comes in knowing he's providing a necessary service to the people of B.C.

Murray Barnes is only one of the more than 43,000 members of the B.C. Government Employees' Union working for you all over the Province.

At all kinds of jobs.

Under all kinds of working conditions.

All people whose skill, experience and dedication have made our provincial public employees among the most efficient anywhere in North America today.

And that's something to be proud of.

So the next time you're going to the office, think about Murray Barnes going to jail. For you.

The B.C. Government Employees' Union
We're working for you.

Records Office Gets Push

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier will seek a meeting with the mayors of Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Central Saanich to propose a joint submission to the provincial government for financing the establishment of a central records office.

Couvelier, chairman of the Saanich police board, told a board meeting Wednesday that such an information service would be invaluable to area police departments and he feels the most appropriate location for it would be in the city of Victoria.

If that could be accomplished, he said, it might also help allay suspicions by neighboring police departments that Saanich was trying to "empire-build" with its proposed police dog unit.

The latter proposal has been left in a state of suspension because Saanich doesn't know when or even if it will get the requested financial help from the province to build the kennels and dog handler accommodation.

A letter from the B.C. Police Commission said funds provided for training of police dogs and handlers last year have not been automatically carried forward, and Saanich will have to make a fresh request for cash in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The letter also said that until the provincial cabinet acts on recommendations of the task force on municipal policing costs — specifically those dealing with the provision of centralized services — the Saanich police board's plans for a dog unit are "premature."

Board member John Tribe expressed frustration at the delay in implementing the task force recommendations, noting that the uncertainty is hampering project planning for all municipal police departments.

The board accepted his motion that Saanich inquire from Attorney-General Garde Gardom when financial assistance might be forthcoming.

Policeman Takes Spill

Victoria police motorcycle Const. Dave Mann received hip and back injuries in a spill on a rough stretch of Roderick Street late Wednesday night.

Mann was taken to Victoria General Hospital and later released.

Police said Mann was checking out a complaint of prowlers in the area when the mishap occurred at 11 p.m.

Police Pact 'Vacuum'?

Negotiators for Victoria policemen are seeking a meeting with the full police board to discuss contract proposals, union president Sgt. Bryan Bailey said today.

He said union officials have met four times with a negotiating committee of the board but the policemen want to determine whether the committee's position represents that of the entire board and city council.

"We think the board members are operating in a vacuum," Bailey said, not knowing exactly how far they can go.

So far, he added, the board's position is totally unsatisfactory and at a meeting Tuesday night the policemen voiced heated criticism.

The contract for the 130-member police union expired Dec. 31, 1978.

Bailey said both sides have agreed not to release details about the dispute at this stage.

The city and the policement have only negotiated one contract in the last 25 years. The others have gone to a third party for settlement.

Double-Digit Inflation

Allmand said his department has been sending information to newspapers on nutritional alternatives to high-priced foods and "it is very helpful to consumers in picking out good buys."

Allmand was replying to a New Democratic Party motion condemning the Liberal government for its failure to stop the rising cost of living.

Saskatchewan MP Lorne Nystrom, who introduced the motion, described the government's new National Commission on Inflation as "an economic eunuch" because it can only investigate price increases and does not have power to roll them back.

He reiterated the party's call for the establishment of a Fair Prices Commission — "an economic hit team" — with powers to investigate price increases and either freeze or roll back prices if such action was justified.

High food costs are due primarily to the high price of beef and costly prices for imported foods because of the devalued Canadian dollar, Allmand said.

The cost-of-living rose by 8.9 per cent in the 12-month period to the middle of January.

$5 Billion Budget

MAPLE RIDGE (CP) — The provincial budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year is expected to top $5 billion, Finanace Minister Evan Wolfe said Wednesday.

Wolfe said the new budget should be about five per cent more than the $4.8 billion budget for the current fiscal year which ends March 31.

Ju-Jube Wanted At Home

If anyone out there spots Ju-Jube, four youngsters and Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson will be overjoyed.

She's epileptic and must be given medication daily.

Mrs. Wilkinson said after a Times classified ad earlier this week, Ju-Jube was spotted around Royal Roads Wednesday but appears to be extremely sick.

Lougheed Swept Back Again

per cent. Of the 1.1 million eligible voters, 63.8 cast ballots.

There were indications that at least two of the opposition parties might expect review of their leadership.

"We'll make some assessments in due course," said Social Credit Leader Bob Clarke, re-elected in his Olds-Didsbury riding. The other three Social Credit winners were incumbents.

Liberal Leader Nick Taylor, defeated for the second time in Calgary Glenmore, said he will step down "in at least a year, maybe two."

Grant Notley, leader of the NDP and re-elected in his northern riding of Spirit River-Fairview, congratulated Lougheed on his victory but added: "I think that all of us, including perhaps some Progressive Conservative supporters, would have like to see a stronger opposition."

Notley's predictions that the NDP would gain in the North fell apart as Conservative sweep overtook the region.

The continued Conservative domination, expected by most, prompted Notley to say it was a "bad night for democracy."

"I feel badly about the results," he said. "I'm too old to cry but it hurts too much to laugh."

Six women were elected, all Conservatives. Among them was Catherine Chichak, a member of Lougheed's last government. She defeated Ray Martin, a prominent member of the NDP provincial executive.

Eight cabinet ministers and 12 back-bench MLAs did not run again, paving the way for the 29 new Conservatives elected.

While a staggering victory, the election did not set a record. In 1935, the Prince Edward Island Liberal party took power winning all the province's 30 seats.

Splurge of $1.5M Leaves Merchants Riled and Reeling

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

The fallout from a coupon booklet listing more than $500 worth of free goods and services has dealt a staggering blow to some Greater Victoria merchants.

Better Business Bureau manager Bill Tindall says he suspects some businesses have folded because of the booklet, called Shopping Spree.

Others have discovered they can't live up to the offers they made and remain financially solvent.

"I've had people come here and say it's a total disaster," Tindall said in an interview.

The booklets, costing $24.95 each and containing 70 coupons good until the end of April, were sold by telephone solicitors over a six-week period last August and September. The Victoria Evening Optimist Club and Boys' and Girls' Club of Greater Victoria acted as sponsors.

The promotion company, Shopping Spree Merchandise Adv. Inc. of Vancouver, contracted with the participating businesses to limit production of the booklets to 3,000. But Tindall said there is no way of knowing how many were sold.

Even company president Tony Buium said he couldn't provide the figure. The booklets are not numbered.

Tindall said if all the booklets were sold, as he believes they were, they represent a commitment by the businessmen to provide goods and services worth $1.5 million.

Forty-two businesses originally participated in the scheme, but at least four have since gone out of business.

Tindall felt many of the businessmen didn't fully appreciate the extent of their giveaway offers.

Certainly Ken Bosence didn't. His firm, Air-Mist Cleaning Ltd., agreed to provide a free rug clean worth $17.50. The commitment, on 3,000 coupons, represents $52,500.

"When I went into this I was told I'd likely be rushed for the first two or three weeks," he said.

But that hasn't been the case. The rush has never stopped.

Last fall he said he had carpets piled up in his driveway five feet deep.

It reached the point he had to post a sign saying he couldn't honor any more coupons until he'd got rid of the backlog.

"It's my fault. I shouldn't have been so stupid. But they (the promoters) could have sold me the Johnson Street Bridge. They were pros, real pros. They really got us good on this one."

Arthur Murray Dance Studio, which committed itself to providing $150,000 worth of free dance instruction, has had its problems too.

"The coupon-holders are taking up all the teachers' time," a spokesman lamented.

"It would have been great if even 10 per cent had stayed and bought one of our programs. But very few have."

None of the merchants quite expected the big response.

30-40 Every Day

Austy Craven, who committed himself to giving away $36,000 worth of car washes at his Victoria Bubble Machine, said he's honoring 30 to 40 coupons a day. One Saturday the number soared to nearly 100.

He wouldn't do it again, at least not in the same way.

Neither would Norm Petres of Deluxe Billiards.

He said he didn't realize until too late he'd signed up for four coupons per booklet. Each coupon gives a half-hour free pool.

He wanted to attract the adult crowd. Instead he got mostly kids. They come in for half an hour and then leave.

In an average week he takes in 40 to 50 coupons.

"I'm chalking it all up as a loss," he said.

Fred Young of London Fish and Chips is also disappointed.

He included a $2.40 coupon for a meal thinking the person coming in would probably bring a friend. It hasn't worked out that way. So far he's honored nearly 2,000 coupons.

He's writing it off as advertising.

"I'm established enough that I can get by."

Some of the merchants said they have had to change the offer they made on the coupon.

Bristol Town Unisex at first limited the number it would take for a free shampoo and haircut (value — $12.50) to 18 a day, then dropped it to eight. Now it's four.

Carol Anne Evans of Carol Anne's Plants & Decorating gave up on her offering to provide a house call on plant care or decorating because so many of the callers were single men.

Another merchant confided he now jacks up his prices when he sees a couponholder coming.

"I know it's not cricket, but I'm not going to go broke over this."

Only a handful supported the program. Laurie Carroll of Mattick's golf course said his $1 coupons for a small bucket of balls for the driving range has had a good effect on business. He'd do it again.

So would Jean Owen of Merle Norman Cosmetics which offers a facial with personalized make-up, value — $17.

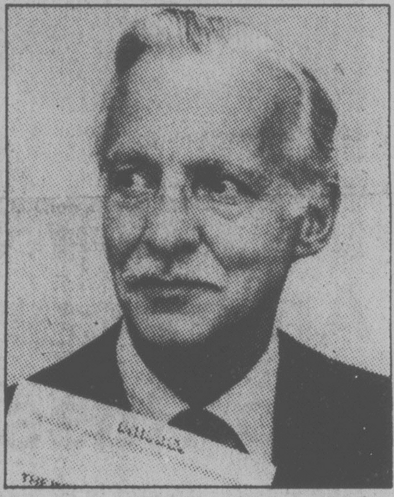
"It's put us on the map before we even put our advertising on television," she said.

Tindall said the intent of the booklets was to stimulate new business and help the sponsoring societies raise money for worthwhile causes.

But, from the businessman's standpoint the concept has been, by and large, detrimental, he said.

He wondered what part the booklet may have played in the closure of four businesses — Victoria Meat Market, Buckinghams, Nature's Pantry, and the Plantarium. A fifth, Carol Anne's, will close at the end of the month.

Although Shopping Spree disavows any liability in such cases, it has voluntarily sent out a supplementary book to customers who have complained. The book contains among other things eight coupons for free karate lessons. It also contains three $4 coupons for cleaning drapes at Renfrew Cleaners which manager Irene Plaxton said were never authorized as far as she knew.



TINDALL
. . . 'people say it's a total disaster'

"It's been really embarrassing and upsetting," she said.

Tindall said neither have the sponsors profitted as much as expected.

Alex Adamson, vice-president of the board of directors of the Boys' Club, said his club and the Optimists received $4,500 to share between them.

If all, the booklets were sold the company would have grossed $75,000.

In their pitch to prospective buyers, the telephone solicitors said the program was brought "through the courtesy of over 40 merchants and is sponsored by Boys' and Girls' Club and the Optimist Club."

Tindall felt a number of people would have taken that to mean the profits would go to the two clubs.

Adamson agreed the pitch was misleading.

"If the people had been told only $1.50 was going to us and the Optimists, it would have been a little more honest," he said.

Tindall also said the company may have misled the public in its advertising by saying there was nothing more to buy or spend. The ad appeared in the now-defunct Victoria Post last August.

He said one of the coupons in a special bonus section offers a family photo portrait valued at $29.95. The coupon notes there is a $3.99 charge to cover packaging, insuring and handling.

Bent Over Backwards

Shopping Spree president Buium said the advertising pitch was intended to cover only the regular coupons and not those in the bonus section.

Adamson said that before signing up as co-sponsor, he investigated the company, found it had been in operation 18 years, and had run successful programs in Alberta and Vancouver, without complaint.

The company recently set up a program in Nanaimo.

Buium expressed surprise there was a problem in Victoria.

He said his company had bent over backwards to be a good corporate citizen and was a member of the Better Business Bureau in Vancouver . . . in good standing, he added.

Promoters Called 'Real Pros'

They told Ken Bosence of Air-Mist Cleaning Ltd. he'd be rushed for the first two or three weeks but it's never stopped.

At one time he had carpets piled in his driveway five feet deep.

"It's my fault. I shouldn't have been so stupid," he says. "The promoters could have sold me the Johnson Street Bridge. They were real pros."

23% Increase in Value Of Tourism Last Year

Tourist revenues for Victoria totalled $160 million in 1978, up a stunning 23 per cent from the previous year, Visitors Information Centre president Ed Higgin said today.

He said the numbers are gratifying but local merchants may be taking too much for granted in assuming this summer will be even better.

The 23-per-cent boost, compared with a provincial increase of only 15 per cent, was due in part to a vigorous promotional campaign for the Capt. Cook Bicentenary and the visit of the tall ships.

Victoria will have to work hard to repeat last year's success, he said.

That is why he is pushing ahead with a proposal to offer a goodwill bonus on the U.S. dollar this summer, although his original idea to offer a fixed rate of 20 cents may have been overtaken by events.

When he first suggested 20 cents, the bank rate was near 18 cents. Now it is down to 16 as the Canadian dollar strengthens.

"What we might consider is a goodwill bonus of the bank rate plus two," he said

With the dollar fluctuating so much it might not be feasible to offer a fixed rate all summer long.

He said the present strength in the Canadian dollar may be only temporary and he would not be surprised to see the bonus rise to 18 or 19 cents soon.

"We may find that 20 cents would have been a practical rate to offer but I can understand why merchants don't want to take a chance when the dollar is fluctuating so much."

At present levels, it would cost four or five cents on the dollar to offer a bonus of 20 cents and that is a bit more than most merchants can afford.

He said he will be interested to hear the reaction to his amended idea to pay the bank rate plus a goodwill bonus of 2 cents.

This would be something that could be advertised widely in the U.S. and could create some excitement, he said.

On Wednesday the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce asked the 218 merchants attending a luncheon their opinion of how much should be paid and 59 per cent said they were against paying one fixed rate for the whole summer.

However, 76 per cent of them said they would be willing to pay the bank rate or one point less.

Only 7.7 per cent were willing to pay 20 cents when the bank rate is 16.

Higgin said the vote was no surprise in view of the way the dollar has changed in value during recent weeks.

Setting a fixed amount is based on the assumption there will be only small fluctuations in the dollar but this might not be the case this summer with constant government intervention, he said.

He said pre-election tinkering with the dollar had made forecasting the future value unusually difficult.

Higgin said he would be pleased to see Victoria match the 1978 total of $160 million in tourist revenues, up $30 million from $130 million in 1977, but it might not happen unless vigorous promotion is carried out.

The total for Vancouver Island in 1978 was $279 million, up $39 million or 16 per cent from $240 million in 1977.

Ask The Times

Q. Today we preserve many of our old or historic buildings. We also have national parks. Can you tell me what organization or person started the movement to preserved historic buildings and parks? J.P.

A. The 1st Marquess of Dufferin, governor-general of Canada 1872-78 deserves the credit. He was continually encouraging Canadians to preserve their historic buildings and beauty spots. For example, he suggested to the Quebec city council that it preserve its old walls and historic buildings. He also proposed the creation of national parks at Niagara Falls by the Canadian and U.S. governments.

Business 'Myopic' About Mall

Ald. Robin Blencoe today slammed the Government Street merchants who are fighting a proposal to close the mall to traffic.

"There seems to be a predominace of myopic thinking going on in this town," said Blencoe.

A number of merchants surveyed Wednesday described the idea of closing the street to traffic for limited periods in the summer as either stupid or premature.

But Blencoe, who had made the proposal along with traffic committee chairman Ald. Bill McElroy, said the businessmen weren't giving the concept a fair hearing.

"I'm really surprised they went off the deep end so soon," he said. "I had wanted to get this idea before the public for discussion . . . of course the businessmen would have been involved."

Blencoe said the immediate negative reaction of the merchants is disturbing, especially since city hall has been spending substantial amounts of money in recent years to help attract shoppers to the downtown area.

"Quite frankly I think we should be taking a very serious second look at the amount of money we give to the downtown business community."

He said the city core is in trouble because outlying shopping centres are drawing off the lion's share of the business.

"And what do all these shopping centres have in common? Well malls, where there's no traffic

"One of the reasons people aren't coming downtown today is because of the traffic problem and the hectic pace. By closing the Government mall for limited periods this summer we could have found out whether it was possible to create a more attractive climate downtown."

The closure proposal will be discussed soon by council's traffic committee.

Panthers Lone Island Survivor in Hoop Meet

VANCOUVER — Parkland Panthers, the Vancouver Island champions, became the lone survivor out of three Island representative teams following opening-day play Wednesday in the British Columbia "AA" high school boys' basketball championship tournament at Pacific Coliseum.

Panthers, unbeaten in league and playoff action since December, tripped Mount Baker Trojans of Cranbrook 68-47.

Mt. Douglas Rams were dropped 64-62 by Richmond Colts and Nanaimo Islanders suffered a 71-59 loss to Magee of Vancouver.

Quinn Groenhyde, picked as the most valuable player in the Island tourney, continued to spark Panthers with a 26-point effort while Greg Wiltjer added 22 and Dexter Williams chipped in 12. Murray Vogt led Trojans, who trailed 44-22 at half time, with 14 points and Keith Stewart added 12.

Russ Thornton fired 28 points in a losing cause for Rams in a close game. Rams trailed 34-30 at half time and missed forcing overtime when a shot by Russ Mosher bounced off the rim in the dying seconds.

Magee came up with a surprising decision over Islanders, taking a 37-26 lead at the half and never looked back. Roy Heuckerndorff set the pace for Magee with 29 points while Randy Marsh and Mike Murphy topped Islanders with 12 points each.

Parkland was scheduled to face highly-rated Mennonite Educational Institute Eagles of Abbotsford in a quarter-final game today. Rams face Duchess Park of Prince George and Islanders tackle Mission Roadrunners in losers' bracket games.

In other opening-day action, Gladstone Gladiators of Vancouver upset Fraser Valley-champion Roadrunners 73-61, Burnaby South trimmed Caledonia of Terrace 73-54, West Vancouver put down Duchess Park 78-70, Eagles blitzed KLO of Kelowna 75-48 and Delta shaded Penticton, 76-70.

Traded Slow In Reacting

Blockbuster trades are expected to shake things up and the one Bob Pulford helped to construct earlier this week did just that.

But the outcome of Wednesday night's game between Philadelphia Flyers and the new-look Chicago Black Hawks was not exactly what Chicago's general manager-coach had hoped for.

"A lot of people were probably disappointed," Pulford said after the Hawks — with four new faces in the lineup — were humbled 4-0 by the Flyers before a crowd of 14,584 at Chicago Stadium, many eager to see the likes of forwards Tom Lysiak and Harold Phillipoff and defenceman Pat Ribble in Black Hawk uniforms for the first time.

Pulford admitted he was extremely nervous before the game, even though he knew his new players could not possibly learn his system in time to be of any help.

"With four newcomers trying to learn a disciplined style of hockey, nobody could expect miracles," said the Hawks' John Marks. "Everybody was nervous tonight and I'm sure guys like Lysiak and Ribble were trying their best.

"It's tough enough for a winger to play our style, but a defenseman has a lot more to do since he has to bring the puck out from your own end and when you're not sure of where a player is supposed to be, it's impossible to know that to do."

In other games, Ivan Boldirev and Darcy Rota, two of the three players sent to Atlanta by the Hawks in the Thursday deal, each collected an assist as the Flames downed New York Rangers 6-4. Buffalo Sabres dumped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1, Minnesota North Stars surprised Montreal Canadiens 4-3, Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins tied 3-3 and Detroit Red Wings beat Washington Capitals 4-1.

.. And A Letter From Mom

MIAMI (AP) — Baltimore Orioles manager Earl Weaver says before women are allowed in the baseball team's locker room, they "should have to have a letter from their parents."

General manager Hank Peters said that since baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn lifted his guidelines that barred women from the locker room, the female reporters will be allowed to gain entrance to the clubhouse as of opening day.

"As long as they have proper press credentials, women will be given free access to our clubhouse with no time limit," Peters said. "The only thing we're doing is installing a wall several feet in front of the door leading from the locker room to the shower."

A memo from Peter to Weaver and other office personnel says, "Each club is to set its own policy, and ours will be one of unrestricted access to female reporters who have the proper credentials."

"I think it ought to require two things," Weaver said. "The women should have to have a letter from their parents and a letter from publicity manager Bob Brown."

Fish Nears Playoff Spot

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Canada has been all but assured of a berth in the semi-finals of the world junior men's curling championship, but the scramble will be on for the other three spots following some dramatic changes in the standing Wednesday.

Darren Fish's Edmonton rink fell from the unbeaten ranks, dropping a 8-4 decision to Don Barcome's United States foursome.

But highly-favored Scotland, with only one loss in the previous five rounds, lost both games. Andrew McQuistin's rink took a 7-2 beating from Sweden's Tony Eng, then fell 8-7 to Norway's Sjur Loen.

Canada remained on top of the round-robin standings entering today's final two rounds with a 6-1 record, while Norway and the U.S. were next at 5-2. Scotland's back-to-back losses dropped it into a four-way tie for third with Denmark's Tommy Stjerne, Switzerland's Eric Francois Rudolf and Eng — all at 4-3.

Massimo Alvera's Italian rink, which picked up its second win of the championship, had a 2-5 record, France's Claude Feige foursome was 1-5 and Germany's Roland Jentsch was 0-7.

Feige fell to Fish 10-5 in the afternoon draw after leading going into the last half of the game.

Barcome took a 5-0 lead over Fish by the fifth end, although the Edmonton rink managed to count two in the eighth end on a missed Barcome draw and come to within one point in the ninth end.

Fish tried to draw for the tying point in the 10th end, but came in heavy and chipped out of the house, leaving Barcome to count three for the win.

Fish managed to find a blessing in being beaten.

"No one should go through a thing like this undefeated," he said. "There's so much pressure on you in the final you could lose the whole shebang."

He also admitted the French rink let him off the hook in the afternoon game, in which Canada counted eight points in the last three ends to come back from a 5-1 deficit and end the game after eight ends.

Barcome has renewed hopes for a berth in the final.

"I've been telling people I'm a good curler," he said, after besting Fish. "I just had to show a few people."

Americans Put End To Russian Reign

VIENNA (CP) — Americans Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner today celebrated a victory that ended the Soviet Union's 14-year domination of the world pairs figure skating title.

Canadians, meanwhile, had little to cheer about at the world championships other than a brief moment of recognition for Calgary's Brian Pockar.

The 19-year-old Canadian men's champion pulled off an unusual and difficult jump combination in his short program Wednesday.

But while the judges were impressed with Pockar's triple one-foot salchow followed by a double flip, it still wasn't enough to pull him out of 14th spot where he was placed after the compulsory figures.

Canadian pairs champions Barbara Underhill and Paul Martini also faced disappointment Wednesday when they finished 11th in their first senior world championship.

Babilonia and Gardner, after finishing third the last two years, took advantage of the absence of champions Irina Rodnina and Alexander Zaitsev to claim the pairs title over another Soviet pair, Marina Cherkasova and Sergei Shahrai.

Rodnina, who won the title the last six years with husband Zaitsev and four years before that with Alexei Ulanov, gave birth to her first child two weeks ago.

Soviets Ljudmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov had been world pairs champions for four years before Rodnina's reign and Wednesday's decision marked the first time since 1962 that a North American couple skated to victory. Canada's Maria and Otto Jelinek were the 1962 champions.

Babilonia and Gardner had taken the lead in the short program Tuesday and skated a safe but flawless free skating final to clinch the victory.

Sabine Baesz and Tassilo Thierbach of East Germany finished third.

Underhill, from Oshawa, Ont., and Martini readily admitted they had not skated well and their most glaring errors were two bad throw jumps.

While the Soviet Union let the pairs title slip away, they remained firmly in command in the dance competition where defending champions Natalia Linichuk and Gennadi Karponosov had the lead after the first two compulsory dances.

Canadian dance champions Lorna Wighton of Toronto and John Dowding of Oakville, Ont., were in sixth place after the first two compulsories while Patricia Fletcher and Michael de la Penotiere of Toronto were 15th. The two couples finished sixth and 12th last year, respectively.

Going into today's men's final, Soviet Vladimir Kovalev held the lead over Jan Hoffman of East Germany.

Aussies Shattered

MELBOURNE (Reuter) — Pace bowler Sarfraz Nawaz shattered the Australian batting order today and gave the Pakistan cricket team a 71-run victory in the first Test Match between the two countries.

Australia, buoyed by left-hander Allan Border's 105, appeared headed for victory at tea but Sarfraz then took over and the home side collapsed from 305 for three to 310 all out.

In all, he claimed nine wickets for 86 runs and he removed the last seven Australian batsmen at a personal cost of one run.

Six Race Time in Playoff Bids

Six of the Western Hockey League's 12 teams are still "racing."

With only 10 days remaining in the regular schedule, the main targets still in dispute are the third and last playoff berth in the Eastern Division, second place in the Western Division and the top spot in the Central Division.

That throws extra emphasis into the two games scheduled tonight.

Victoria Cougars, holding the West's second rung by one point over New Westminster Bruins, entertain Lethbridge Broncos at Memorial Arena while Regina Pats play the Bighorns in Billings.

Lethbridge trails Billings by three points in the battle for the Central lead but the Pat Ginnell-coached Broncos have two games in hand. Regina trails Edmonton Oil Kings by three points in the battle for the East's final playoff spot.

Both Regina and Lethbridge missed opporunity to gain Wednesday. Goaltender Kelly Hrudey of Medicine Hat stopped 56 shots as the Tigers put a damper on Pats' hopes with a 6-4 victory in Regina while the Broncos bowed 8-3 to the Winter Hawks in Portland.

In Wednesday's only other game, Murray Stephens also came through with a sparkling netminding display, stopping 53 shots as Saskatoon Blades tied Brandon Wheat Kings 1-1.

Perry Turnbull scored three times to spark the Hawks and boost his individual goals total to 71 for the season, two short of the club record. Joel Eliott was one of Portland's other scorers to become the ninth 20-goal scorer on the team this year.

Cougar coach Jack Shupe has called up defencemen Ryan McAdams and Len Dawes and forward Brent Denat for the balance of the season after Nanaimo Clippers were eliminated from the B.C. Junior League playoffs. At least two of the three will dress for tonight's game, starting at 8.

Austin Rink Shares Second

LLOYDMINSTER, Alta. — The Dick Austin rink of Equimalt split a pair of games in the Canadian Legion curling championships, Wednesday, to hold second place with a 4-2 record.

Austin defeated New Brunswick 9-3 in the seventh round after losing to Newfoundland's Doug Huff 12-1 in the sixth round.

Quebec leads with a 5-1 record. Saskatchewan, Ontario and Newfoundland are tied with B.C. for second.

The Canadian Junior Men's Comes to Town

By BILL WALKER,
Times Staff

Now that the Brier and the Lassie are over and with the World Junior winding up this week, the Canadian Junior Men's Curling Championship is the biggie on the curling calendar, especially here.

Next week, beginning Monday, the Victoria Curling Club will be the site of the 21st annual event, sponsored by Pepsi Cola.

Twelve provincial championship rinks will compete in the round-robin event culminating with a new format this year — a sudden-death game for the championship on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. between the two rinks with the best over-all records following the round-robin competition.

Opening ceremonies and first draw will be held Monday at 2:30 p.m. There will be a second draw Monday at 8 p.m.

Other draw times are Tuesday, 9 a.m., 2:30 and 8 p.m.; Wednesday, 2:30 and 8 p.m.; Thursday, 9 a.m., 2:30 and 8 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Playoffs will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. if necessary.

Otherwise, the competing curlers and officials will be feted in the manner befitting a championship event.

Rinks will arrive Sunday and will be housed at the Imperial Inn and Paul's Motor Inn. Practice time has been arranged at Victoria area clubs.

Schedule of events includes:

Canadian Curling Association brunch and draw at Imperial Inn, Monday at 10:30 a.m.;

Vancouver Island Curling Association luncheon at Holyrood House, Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.;

Province of British Columbia luncheon at Holyrood House, Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.;

Greater Victoria Curling Clubs luncheon at Holyrood House, Thursday at 12:30 p.m.;

Sealand tour for curlers and coaches, Friday at 12:30 p.m.;

Pacific Coast Curling Association banquet at Crystal Room, Empress Hotel, Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Pepsi Cola banquet and dance at Holyrood House, Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

For the curling, admission prices are $7 for the week, $4 for seniors and juniors, or $1 per draw, 50 cents for seniors and juniors.

The championship entry is headed by the Darren Fish rink of Edmonton. Fish is the defending champion and currently playing in the world junior championship at Moose Jaw.

Probably the best description of the Fish rink was penned in a Canadian Press report:

"The reigning Canadian junior men's curling champions follow a new trend: they're outsiders in the orderly world of curling.

"The Fish foursome has become known as a collection of hell-raisers off the ice."

A series of incidents at hotels during competitions was capped in January when the Canadian Curling Association (CCA) removed lead Barry Barker from the world rink for poor conduct while attending a warm-up competition in Moose Jaw last December. He broke down a hotel room door.

However, members of the Fish rink can curl. That's what they are coming here for, and Barker is back at lead.

The only change from last year's championship unit has Wes Johnson of Red Deer at third in place of Lorne Barker. Murray Ursulak is the second.

Alberta has won five of the last seven championships while Saskatchewan has won the most Canadian titles, 11, one more than Alberta.

Ontario has won six, Manitoba two, and B.C., Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick one each.

Stacey Coomber of Powell River captured the provincial championship and other members of his rink are Dan Carriere at third, Don McPhee at second and Mike Cameron at lead.

NEWFOUNDLAND — Geoffrey Cunningham, Derek Benson, John Allen, Robert Thomas.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND — Peter Jenkins, Billy Dillon, John Likely, Richard Kays.

YUKON-NORHWEST TERRITORIES — Mike Moss, Dean Brown, Grant Lloyd, Ron Haggett.

What's The Answer To Hood-Type Case?

Solutions must be found — there's no doubt about it. No longer can we in Canada allow boys or girls, men or women to suffer just because they may have been blessed with sufficient talent to enable them to represent their country.

Whether or not you agree with young Danny Hood — the Victoria soccer player who left work without permission to attend a week-long national team training camp — or his employer who fired him when he came back, the case is a classic one. Neither player nor employer should have been put in this position in the first place!

Many of us concerned about fair play and human rights and things like that were pretty enraged when Danny told his sad story. But to national soccer officials, and indeed to those who organize all the different sports in Canada, the tale is a familiar one.

"In the last six years there have been at least 15 national team players across the country who have lost their jobs because of commitments to the training program," Alex Hylan, a director of the Canadian Soccer Association who lives in Victoria, said yesterday.

* * *

Not only the players are affected, either, as Pat Quinn, a long-time employee of Ontario Hydro, was fired last year because of an increasing involvement as physiotherapist and trainer with the national soccer team. It was an involvement that had gone on for 10 years.

But as Hylan (who is actually the CSA's director of technical committees, five different groups of officials including one group responsible for the national team) pointed out, it can often be tough for employers who have workers on national teams.

"Young men chosen for either Canada's youth or Olympic teams could need about eight weeks in the year away from their job to train for and then play matches," he explained. "Often a guy is essential to his company. There are a lot of guys like that. And what does a company do while he's away all that time?"

Soccer officials generally agree that a player who may be worried about missing studies or concerned about the security of his job, shows it in his play. Often he'll lose form, play badly and isn't much use to the team while it's away on tour.

Wouldn't it just be possible for a country proud of its athletes to reimburse the employer (by paying someone else to do the missing player's job) so that both could relax a little more?

As Alex Hylan pointed out, the whole area of government sponsorship in sport is a pretty complex thing. The government is helping all sports more and more each year now through Sport Canada but the budgeting is very strict and all funds must go to exactly where they are allocated.

Then wouldn't it be an idea to allocate some of those funds to employers so our athletes can take the time they need as a right and without the hassles they get now and certainly don't need?

* * *

At the moment it's all very much up to the whim of the employer.

"We have a procedure we normally follow when we tell a boy he's likely to be selected and invite him to trials," Hylan said. "A letter is sent out by CSA executive director Eric King informing the employer or the college that the boy has been asked to try out, telling him what it means as far as time is concerned, and asking for cooperation."

It isn't always forthcoming.

"We've had situations where every time a player was selected he lost his job!" Hylan said. "Many times it has been so bad in Canadian rep soccer that it would just be a case of 'If your job is here when you get back, fair enough. If not, tough luck.'

"Now that our program is improving and Canada is putting more into soccer, involving more time away from work, these firings of national team players are becoming more prevalent," Hylan explained. "The problem is getting worse because we're getting better."

What a price to pay for success.

Abbott, Morneau Top Tenpin List

Maureen Abbott captured the women's tenpin award on the basis of a tie-breaking single game and Ray Morneau collected men's laurels during the 21st week of competition in the 16th annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest.

Maureen rolled a 167-190-200 — 557 series to tie with Liz Taylor in total. But Liz' highest single game, used under contest rules to snap a tie, was 192 and the nod went the Maureen.

Obstacles Remain

NEW YORK (AP) — National Hockey League president John Ziegler said Wednesday night a number of obstacles remain to be ironed out before the NHL can expand to include four franchises from the World Hockey Association.

Ziegler has called a meeting of the NHL's board of governors for March 22 in Chicago and discussions will be held on a proposed offer of admission to Edmonton Oilers, Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg Jets and New England Whalers.

"There is not yet a formal proposal to be put to the governors," Zeigler said.

"And further, even if a proposal were accepted by the governors, the WHA may say to us, 'That's very nice, fellows, but we're not interested.' "

Beyond that, Ziegler said, negotiations must be held with the NHL Players Association, which is empowered by the collective bargaining agreement to claim breach of that contract if a "merger" with the WHA were to take place.

NHLPA executive director Alan Eagleson said in Toronto on Wednesday night his association would want to negotiate for "half of the proceeds from the sale of four NHL franchises."

Rugby Leaders Keep Pace

St. Michael's University School, Victoria Titans and Oak Bay Barbarians maintained their one-two-three pace atop the Russell Division by chalking up victories Wednesday in the Greater Victoria High School Rugby League.

St. Michael's continued its runaway pace, extending an unbeaten streak to 10 matches with a 16-0 shutout over Parkland Panthers while Titans tripped Spectrum 6-3 and Barbarians trampled Claremont Spartans, 28-9.

Tom Todesco led St. Michael's with two tries and single four-pointers were added by Jamie Ellis and Rob Frame.

Tim Anderson raced over the line for three Oak Bay tries and Nick Alexenko also contributed 12 points with two penalty goals and three conversions. Tom Graham scored the other Barbarians try while James Christiansen (try) and Mike McGregor (penalty, conversion) replied for Spartans.

'FAIR PLAY' RULE INVOKED FOR RUTHERS

There will be no gathering of splinters when the Victoria Firefighters' Babe Ruth Baseball League introduces the tier system regulation.

It will be a ruling that will guarantee all players playing time.

Potential players are asked to register at either Henderson, Esquimalt, Reynolds Road or Lambrick Parks March 16 (6-8 p.m.), 17 (10 a.m.-4 p.m.) and 18 (noon-3 p.m.).

Go-Kart Drivers Preparing For Season at Western

The Capital City Go-Kart Club season starts in April but the general public gets a chance to see what the sport is all about at a display in the Mayfair Mall, starting Monday (March 19).

Races are generally held each Saturday afternoon and there's no age limit in the family-type sport. The Capital City Club has approximately 100 members ranging in age from six to 60 — although not all race.

Competitions are of two categories — sprint and enduro. Sprint races are held on the two ovals at Western and the enduros take in both ovals as well as the one-mile road circuit.

Rookies race in 80 cc. machines while juniors and seniors compete in the more powerful 100 cc. karts, which can turn the large oval in times comparable to the faster stock cars.

Club membership is open to anyone but machines must pass a rigid safety and technical inspection.

Islanders Picked For Lions Camp

A total of 32 football players have been picked from the Lower Vancouver Island area to attend a province-wide B.C. Lions development camp March 26-30 in Vancouver.

Selections followed the annual Island development camp here last weekend conducted by the Lions coaching staff and attended by coaches from both Simon Fraser University and the University of British Columbia.

One player was picked from Victoria Dolphins of the B.C. Big Four Juvenile League and the remainder come from teams in the Vancouver Island Juvenile League.

Selections:

SAANICH HORNETS (15): Defensive backs — Brett Diana, Dean Craven, Russ Hafer; linemen — Tim Anderson, Jim Johnson, Dennis Arter, Jeff Florian, Brian Alexander, Glen Pettinger, Tim Crawford; tight ends — Gordon Reekie, Mark Purdy; halbacks — Tom Graham, Greg Frame; wide receiver — Ken Munro.

COWICHAN TIMBERMEN (7): Linebackers — Bruce Watt, William Kusters; running backs - Wade Miller, Tom Nielson; centre — Mark Sorova; defensive back — Brian Branting; lineman — Gordon Bronson.

VICTORIA DOLPHINS (1): — Linebacker — Murray Clarke.

Touch Football

All persons interested in the Vancouver Island Touch Football League are invited to attend a registration session at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Cedar Hill Recreation Centre.

Al Wilson, the all-star centre for B.C. Lions of the Canadian Football League and co-ordinator for the province-wide program, will attend the meeting.

Rythmic Gymnastics

UVic's McKinnon Gym will be the site of the British Columbia modern rhythmic gymnastics championships Saturday.

A total of 26 competitors — 19 from the Lower Mainland region and seven from the Vancouver Island area — have entered the one-day event which gets underway at 10:30 a.m.

Among the top entries in the master level is Janet Campbell of Rhythmica Club in Vancouver, who is on the Canadian national team and will be competing in the world championships at London, England, July 1-8.

Admission to the event is $1.50 for adults and $.75 for students and old age pensioners.

Scorpions Compete In Kamloops Meet

Victoria Scorpions, who won the provincial senior "B" title at a tournament in Victoria, will compete in the British Columbia senior "A" men's volleyball championship tourney in Kamloops.

A total of 12 teams will be playinh in the two-day tourney starting Saturday.

THE CANADIAN SCOTTISH REGIMENT (PRINCESS MARY'S)

"If you want a dull, routine job, we are not interested in you. However, if you like challenging, exciting work like firing automatic weapons, throwing grenades, helicopter training, rappeling, mountaineering and more, then you may be just who we are looking for. Join the Canadian Scottish Regiment; try the infantry, you'll like it.

If you are male, 17 or older and physically fit, we want you. Come and ask some questions about serving in Canada's citizen army — The Militia. The work is part time, with some opportunity for full time employment. We're at the Bay Street Armoury on Thursday and Tuesday evenings from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Ask for the Canadian Scottish Regiment."

With today's changing lifestyles, you've never enjoyed so much leisure time. Or looked harder at RV's to provide a new flexibility, a new ruggedness, and a new dependability to keep up with the active, varied way you live today.

The RV market of the future demands a new breed of recreational vehicle, one that can offer you more than ever before. And take you where you want to be in safety, comfort and style.

For you, the future is Security.

SECURITY IS EXPERIENCE

Security has been building top-of-the-line recreational vehicles for over 16 years. In that time, we've learned a lot about recreational vehicles and what makes them go—on the road or in the market-place. And we've built a fine reputation for uncompromising quality and dependability under the most demanding conditions.

At Security, we build recreational vehicles for people who use them. And we're proud to stand behind our products 100%.

SECURITY IS FLEXIBILITY

Today's RV buyers are a group as diverse as the recreational activities they're involved in. They're couples off for a weekend in the mountains. Families wanting an all-purpose fun machine. Fishermen. Skiers. Cross-country travellers. On-the-job professionals needing temporary living quarters. They're people like you. Whatever your leisure plans, Security offers a flexibility and versatility unmatched in the industry.

We provide a full line of motor homes, van conversions, travel trailers, fifth wheel trailers, and the Statesman and Explorer series campers—23 different floor plans in all. No matter what your RV requirement, we've got a vehicle to handle it.

SECURITY IS QUALITY

Security RV's are built for the thinking buyer, the individual who demands a vehicle that combines toughness and rugged construction with the optimum in design and features.

Before each Security vehicle rolls off the assembly line, a total of 85 separate visual checks and countless quality-control tests have been made to ensure the highest standards of quality. Security vehicles are built to last.

SECURITY IS CANADIAN

The entire Security line is manufactured here in Canada, your assurance of competitive prices and strong dealer support.

If you're planning to take your leisure to the great outdoors this year, plan for a flexible, comfortable, reliable future. Plan on Security.

United To Meet Liverpool

LONDON (Reuter) — Manchester United, the 1977 champions, earned a berth in what could be a glittering semi-final against the league leaders Liverpool, by defeating Tottenham Hotspur 2-0 in an English Football Association Cup sixth-round replay Wednesday night.

Goals by Joe Jordan and Sammy McIlroy carried United through to its eagerly-awaited confrontation against Liverpool, whom they upset 2-1 in the 1977 final.

United and Spurs had drawn 1-1 in London in their first attempt last Saturday, but the Manchester club wasted no time getting off the mark Wednesday when Jordan, troubled by injury, scored in the 11th minute. Spurs controlled the play for much of the rest of the opening half, but United regained the initiative after the break and McIlroy's tally in the 59th minute clinched the verdict.

ARGOS KEEP COACH

Horsemen Ask Tax Reduction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Horsemen are threatening not to race this year at Exhibition Park unless the provincial government reduces the pari-mutuel tax.

The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association has sent a sharply-worded letter to Finance Minister Evan Wolfe stating that the government should have acted before now in reducing the tax.

"Our members are in desperate financial state in view of rising costs of racing thoroughbreds versus the negligible enhancement in purse money over the last few years," horsemen president Ken O'Connell said in the letter.

The provincial government takes out 6 1-2 per cent of the net purse at Exhibition Park, compared with 2.75 per cent at Alberta tracks and 4.5 per cent at Longacres in Seattle.

Horsemen and the British Columbia Jockey Club, which operates Exhibition Park, claim that the 6 1-2 per cent net takeout is excessive.

"It is becoming almost impossible for us to be competitive with our neighbors as long as our government turns a blind eye to our problems," says Merv Peters, director of racing at Exhibition Park.

O'Connell also said in his letter that the problem at Exhibition Park can be corrected "by a reduction in the pari-mutuel betting tax." He said a government study into the situation is too late to help this year.

The thoroughbred season opens for 108 racing days April 9 at Exhibition Park.

EVINRUDE HAS 21 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN V-ENGINE HIGH PERFORMANCE OUTBOARDS.

NOBODY ELSE EVEN COMES CLOSE.

Go with experience

The Evinrude V-4 engine was introduced in 1958 as a low-profile, high horsepower alternative to the towering in-line engines of the day.

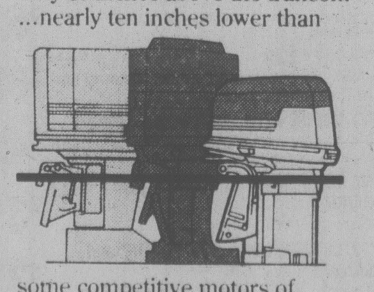
Today, after more than 20 years of designing and refining, our V-4 engine is more than ever the standard by which high performance engines should be measured.

For '79, there's a choice of four Evinrude V-4's from 85 to 140 hp, and four V-6's from 150 to the compact 235 hp, the world's most powerful production outboard.

The Lower the Better

Every V-4 has a low profile design. The powerhead extends only 18 inches above the transom ...nearly ten inches lower than some competitive motors of similar horsepower.

Evinrude V-4's have a low centre of gravity for easy, stable handling and are down out of the way of a ski tow rope or fishing cast.



Proven 90° V-Engine Design

Evinrude V-4's and V-6's are built around a full 90° design (most automotive V-engines are 90°) which allows more space between the two cylinder banks for efficient exhaust tuning and less vibration. V-engines have high displacement for high torque power.

Built for Power

Evinrude's Firepower III electronic ignition (4 hp up) has a new sealed ferrite core coil. It delivers a quick, long-lasting spark for fast, dependable starting.

EVINRUDE

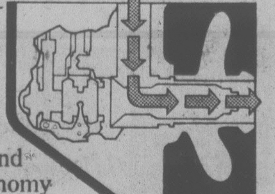
New lower unit design provides better high speed stability and better 'bite' on acceleration.

Pulse-tuned exhaust produces greater power and fuel economy by using fuel more efficiently.



Built in Power Trim and Tilt lets you trim the boat as you drive.

V-4's–85, 100, 115 and 140 hp.

Layoff Forced By Shortages

ENDERBY (CP) — The Morrill and Sturgeon Lumber Co. in this interior British Columbia community has laid off most of its 63 employees because of a shortage of waste cedar material.

Last week, general manager Bob Mee charged that the British Columbia Forest Service was not strict enough in enforcing large quota holders to bring from the bush thin-shelled cedar material that they cannot process.

Firefighter Raise

Forest firefighters will get a $1.20-an-hour pay raise effective April 15 — their first increase since 1973, Forests Minister Tom Waterland said Wednesday. He said the rates have been divided into hourly and daily rates ranging from a basic $5.20 an hour for actual firefighters to $128 a day for a fire boss in charge of more than 75 men.

Hearing Winds Up

A hearing on the Penthouse cabaret licence appeal is expected to conclude today. The nightclub's licence was cancelled in December, 1975, after a police investigation linking it to prostitution.

CUPE Squabble

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Local 900 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees has demanded that its national executive remove two of its representatives for allegedly interfering in contract talks.

Members of the local said the action was taken because of intervention by Jim Kelly and Barry Thorsteinson in the local's internal affairs.

They said a proposed school in Kelowna for shop stewards is an attempt to subvert the local negotiating committee's talks with the city. The talks broke down Feb. 28 over a new effective contract date.

Refugee Has Job

KELOWNA (CP) — Le Van Hao, the head of a nine-member Vietnamese refugee family which arrived here March 2 with only $50, now has found a job, but Canada Employment officials have been unable to find rental housing for the family. Bob McFarland, manager of the Canada Employment office, said that Le Van started work as a laborer Monday.

Corpse Found

NEW AIYANSH (CP) — RCMP said Wednesday they believe a corpse found in the remains of a house destroyed by fire Monday is that of Lester Johnson, a resident of this Indian reserve 100 kilometres north of Terrace.

Did you get Unemployment Insurance in 1978?

If so, you have probably received a tax information slip (T4U) in the mail. You need it for your tax return.

If the slip hasn't arrived, you can apply in person…
If you didn't get a T4U, go to your local Canada Employment Centre (Unemployment Insurance or Manpower Services). Ask for a request card to apply for duplicates. Give the completed card, with some identification (like a credit card or driver's license), to the information counter clerk. The clerk will certify and send it off for you. You'll get your duplicate slip in time to file your tax return.

Phone or write your local Canada Employment Centre (Unemployment Insurance or Manpower Services). Ask them to send you a request card to apply for a duplicate. Complete the card and mail it to the address on it, along with a photocopy of identification (something with your name, like a credit card or driver's license). Please don't send original identification documents. You'll get a duplicate in the mail in time for filing your tax return.

If the slip has arrived…
If you did get a T4U but need a replacement for any reason, use the request card as described above.

If the slip has arrived but you need more information…
If you did get a T4U and still need an itemized statement, use the request card as described above. However, in this case, send identification only if your address now is different from the one on your T4U.

The Canadian Human Rights Act requires us to restrict access to personal information about you. This is why we must ask you for identification.

Parksville Plan Foes Grow

Vancouver Island naturalist organizations have joined forces with fish and game clubs to oppose a plan to develop the Parksville Flats at the mouth of Englishman River.

"It would be sheer madness to allow a housing and commercial development on the flats," said David Orton, regional vice-chairman of the B.C. Federation of Naturalists.

"It would be like subdividing Beacon Hill Park."

Orton said a federation representative will raise the matter at a March 22 Nanaimo meeting called by Environmental Minister Rafe Mair to discuss environmental matters on Vancouver Island.

Parksville council is in favor of a plan proposed by Aldergrove Enterprises for construction of 240 houses around the perimeter of the flats and a 14-acre blacktop commercial centre.

Council has applied to Municipal Affairs Minister William Vander Zalm to extend the village boundaries to take in the flats so it can provide the area with services.

But the Parksville Fish and Game Club, supported by residents, has submitted a petition requesting a public hearing before a decision is made to extend the village boundaries.

Orton said the federation believes public ownership of the land is in the best interest of islanders.

"We condider this a tremendous recreational and wildlife area. We need all the open waterfront space available for the growing population on the east coast of the Island."

He said many residents want the waterfront property preserved because Parksville has become the most heavily used recreational area on the island.

Director Named

John A. Higenbottam was appointed by the provincial government Wednesday to direct the main residential centre of B.C.'s compulsory heroin treatment program at Brannan Lake near Nanaimo.

Pacific Press Makes Pitch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Press Ltd. presented an undisclosed contract proposal Wednesday to the six unions involved in a strike-lockout which has halted production of the city's two daily newspapers since Nov. 1.

Pacific Press, which publishes the morning Province and evening Sun, made the offer through mediator Peter Dowding and the unions now are studying the proposal.

Province publisher Paddy Sherman called the proposal "a comprehensive package" but he refused to say whether it included an offer dealing with the controversial press manning clause which has been a stumbling block.

Union spokesmen and mediator Dowding were unavailable for comment.

Deportation Defended

Attorney-General Garde Gardom said Tuesday his department was acting in the best interests of two abducted children when it recently sought to have them deported from the U.S. rather than extradited.

He was commenting in a news release on the CBC—TV program Ombudsman which reported Sunday on the case of Mrs. Lee McFayden of Keremeos, whose two pre-teen children were taken to California nine months ago by their father.

The children were later located in San Francisco, Gardom said, and his ministry decided then to notify U.S. immigration authorities in order to have the children deported rather than begin extradition proceedings.

"However, the immigration officials arrived too late at the building where they were staying and the father fled with the children."

The FBI and the U.S. department of immigration are searching for the father,' Gardom said.

The attorney-general said B.C.'s general policy has been to extradite only in exceptional cases but that policy is being reviewed.

Gardom said initiating extradition proceedings where a young child is involved may not always be in the child's best interests.

Extradition is a process that can take months to resolve and the only person subject to extradition proceedings is the offending parent, Gardom said.

"Under the law a child cannot be extradited as the child has committed no offense."

Normally in such extradition cases, the child is looked after by a relative or friend in the state where the court action is taking place.

"The trouble with this is that often, months later when the parent is ordered extradited, the child cannot be found," Gardom said.

The alternative is to notify U.S. immigation authorities because they have the authority to pick up anyone who is illegally in the U.S. and to deport them immediately.

The child is returned to Canada as soon as possible and the police see to it that he or she is reunited with the other parent.

"This is why deportation by U.S. immigration officials instead of extradition proceedings is considered to be in the child's best interests, not to mention that of the taxpaying public on both sides of the border; a long and costly extradition hearing is avoided."

Housewife Pension Drafted

OTTAWA (CP) — A tax break for married men was proposed Wednesday by the National Council of Women as the first step in setting up a universal housewives' pension plan.

The tax break would be applied in reverse if the wife was the main breadwinner. But it is mainly aimed at helping women homemakers overcome financial dependence, and sometimes destitution, in old age.

The council said tax advantages for persons who pay into a pension plan for a spouse "might contain the germ of an idea which could be expanded into a universal housewives' pension."

The government could make tax deductible all contributions by the husband into a plan for his wife or vice-versa.

Or, the husband's income could be split equally and both spouses would pay Canada Pension Plan premiums on their share of income.

The husband would deduct from taxable income the share he gave his wife. In effect the couple would pay tax on only half the income and both would be eligible for separate pension benefits at age 65.

The council, one of the oldest women's organizations in the country, made these and other recommendations in a report to Welfare Minister Monique Begin. She is to meet council delegates today.

The report, based on a survey of 250 council members, said it did not want to place a great burden on taxpayers "to bring about the independence of the spouse who remains in the home."

But it said recognition of homemakers was due. It also stressed the need for improving pensions covering women in the paid labor force.

"The profile of the typical female worker in Canada has been one of high mobility with several years out of the work force for pregnancy and child care, often in the service sector or working part-time where few plans are available."

The council challenged the pension industry, employers and unions to improve pension plans so that workers are not penalized for temporarily leaving the work force or changing jobs.

The federal government has proposed eliminating a current Canada Pension Plan penalty for women who leave the labor force to raise children but Ontario has used its veto power to block the improvement.

"Unfortunate," the council report said.

It recommended an increase in federal old age security benefits, saying the majority of elderly women live in poverty.

The council survey said the benefits should remain universal. Only 27.5 per cent of the 250 women thought they should be based on a means test and paid only to the neediest.

Trips Belie Poverty?

TORONTO (CP) — The thousands of Canadians who take spring vacations in the south could not afford to do so if the country's economy were as weak as critics say it is, Jean Chretien said Wednesday.

The federal finance minister made the comment at a Liberal fund-raising dinner for Frank Felkai, party candidate in the Metropolitan Toronto riding of Don Valley West.

Economic growth in Canada since 1970 has been greater than in any Western country, Chretien said.

He said the Liberals had made the economy strong and also had opened the country to immigrants.

"We have received too much from our fathers and grandfathers, that we (Liberals) will never let Canada go down the drain."

Gillespie Attacked Over Oil Supplies

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie came under heavy Commons attack Wednesday as opposition MPs demanded assurances that government efforts to gain tighter control over imported oil supplies will not lead to higher prices for Canadians.

Gillespie, fencing with the opposition for more than half the daily question period, countered that federal policies have already improved the security of supply for import-dependent Eastern Canada while keeping prices below world standards.

The minister also renewed his attack on the Progressive Conservative pledge to dismantle Petro-Canada, the national oil company, should they form the next government.

All Canadians understand why the Conservatives are uncomfortable with the government's plan to allow Petro-Canada to take a larger role in securing oil supply contracts, he said.

Throughout the exchange government and opposition MPs traded insults, jeers and catcalls as the controversy over control of oil supplies continued to dominate political debate.

Allan Lawrence, Conservative energy critic, led off the rowdy session by saying that many Canadians are "damned mad that government policies are forcing them to pay the highest prices in their lifetimes for everything they need," including energy.

Lawrence asked specifically about new deals with Venezuela to be be negotiated by Petro-Canada in place of the U.S. multinational Exxon Corp. The government should be able to guarantee first that prices and supply would remain constant and that Canada would not be cut off from supplies negotiated by other multinationals from other sources.

Gillespie shot back that the Conservatives have no policy of their own on prices and have ignored the issue for years. He later acknowledged to Conservative Leader Joe Clark that he hoped the new contracts would be arranged at "normal commercial terms."

The minister has instructed Petro-Canada to negotiate a deal with Venezuela for 100,000 barrels of oil a day beginning next year. The government hopes to undercut Exxon by contracting for the amount the multinational usually sells to Imperial Oil Ltd., its Canadian subsidiary.

Oil to Rise 25%

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The average price of Venezuelan oil — an important source of Canadian and U.S. energy — is expected to rise at least 25 per cent this year, the Venezuelan energy and mines ministry said Wednesday.

The average per-barrel price is expected to reach more than $15, an increase of almost $3, by year-end, the ministry said in an annual report presented to the Venezuelan congress. The price at the end of 1978 was $12.70 a barrel.

This would represent an additional 10-per-cent increase above the 14.5-per-cent increase authorized by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in December.

The OPEC increase is to be implemented in quarterly stages. OPEC prices rose five per cent Jan. 1.

Air Fare Cuts Likely Unique: Costs Rising

EDMONTON (CP) — A CP Air official said Tuesday that massive fare reductions, currently being offered by his company and Air Canada, may be the first and only one of its kind.

With the fuel-supply problem expected to get worst, air travel may one day become a luxury available only to long-distance travellers, said E. W. Ogden, CP Air vice-president of sales and service in Vancouver.

Ghislain I. Girard, director-general of Societe Inter-Port de Quebec of Quebec City, was elected president, succeeding George Bouchard of Edmundston, N.B. Dennis O'Connell of Lethbridge was elected first vice-president.

Ogden said the fare reductions offered by CP Air and Air Canada for the April-May period were designed to utilize surplus seats. But this could not be a permanent arrangement.

"When discounts get excessive, airlines are simply throwing away revenue. This can't be tolerated in an era of sharply rising fuel prices."

He said the air transportation sector will likely lose out if government has to allocate energy supplies during a crisis.

"There will no doubt be government attempts to curb pleasure travel some time in the future," he said, adding that during an energy crisis air travel may be reserved for trips over 500 miles.

Ogden said the sharp decline of Iranian oil production has already triggered fuel shortages in the United States.

He said a major fuel supplier has indicated to CP Air that cost of fuel outside Canada could go up 20 per cent by the end of 1979 — this on top of prices which are already 10-15 per cent higher than those of three months ago.

CP Air paid an average of 62 cents for a gallon of fuel last year, compared to 17 cents in 1972, the year before the energy crisis.

CP Air has managed to use less fuel to transport more, he said. Last year, CP Air used 148 million gallons to carry 2.96 million passengers and 93.2 million pounds of cargo. In 1975, 154 million gallons were used to carry 2.55 million passengers and 81.6 million pounds of cargo.

How Now, Coke Cow?

If successful, he told the Commons agriculture committee Tuesday, it would mean less government money spent on subsidizing export of surplus skim milk powder and would make soft drinks more nutritious.

He said there are about 12 million pounds of skim milk powder now in government warehouses. This compares to about 30 million pounds in storage a year ago.

How Your Garden Grows

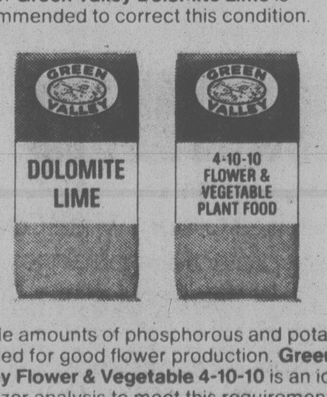
Successful flower gardening

A flower garden can add lush beauty to a yard through much of the year. There are two types of herbaceous flowering plants:

Annuals. Grown from seed, they flower and die in one year.

Perennials. May be grown from seed, bulbs, cuttings or by division. These continue to grow and bloom for several seasons.

Most flowering plants like a sunny location in well drained, loose-textured soil. They also prefer soil which is neutral in reaction. Because acid conditions prevail in this area, an application of Green Valley Dolomite Lime is recommended to correct this condition.



Ample amounts of phosphorous and potash are needed for good flower production. Green Valley Flower & Vegetable 4-10-10 is an ideal fertilizer analysis to meet this requirement.

When bedding plants are first set out, they should be watered frequently and protected from direct sun and cool winds until well established. An application of Green Valley Plant Starter will help to prevent transplant shock and subsequent setback.

During the growing season, periodic applications of Green Valley Hi-Sol 20-20-20 will keep flowering plants producing at a healthy rate.

PQ Has Quebec Labor Grumbling

By PETER HADEKEL
Times Quebec Bureau

RODRIGUE
. . . bewildered, attacked

MONTEBELLO, Que. — Quebec union leaders angrily attacked the Parti Quebecois government and the private sector as a three-day economic summit conference opened here Wednesday.

And they issued a veiled warning that the PQ could lose labor's political support if it doesn't do more to combat unemployment and inflation.

About 325,000 Quebecers are unemployed — one-third of the national jobless total.

Norbert Rodrigue, president of the 150,000 member Confederation of National Trade Unions, told Premier Rene Levesque that government concessions to the private sector have hurt "the workers who brought you to power."

"They feel bewildered and attacked," Rodrigue said, because "for two and a half years you have bent over backwards to please the private sector."

"Your police infiltrate their unions," he added in reference to police surveillance of public sector unions.

The conference being held at the Chateau Montebello, 70 kilometers east of Ottawa, is the PQ government's second attempt at bringing business and labor representatives together.

The outcome of the conference is considered crucial for the government's political fortunes and for its attempts to improve the sluggish Quebec economy.

Louis Laberge, president of the powerful Quebec Federation of Labor, said the government has respected many of its political promises but has not put enough pressure on private industry to reinvest profits.

The devalued Canadian dollar and the elimination last year of sales tax on many Quebec manufactured goods resulted in the best profits for Quebec manufacturers since 1974.

Laberge said some companies like Sun Life Assurance Co. and Cadbury-Schweppes-Powell (both of which pulled operations out of Quebec) look at the province as a "Cuba."

Paul-Emile Dalpe, president of the Centrale des Syndicats Democratiques, said inflation and unemployment have made Quebec workers "the victims" of the economic system "so that others can make a profit."

The union leaders contested government claims that 1978 was a good year for the Quebec economy. They said that for the workers 1978 was one of the "worst" years in lost purchasing power.

Meanwhile Reginald Groome, president of the Montreal Board of Trade, said international investors have a terrible image of Quebec and would rather make investments elsewhere in North America.

Groome said an avalanche of government legislation is scaring away potential investors. "So many laws are coming out that you can't catch your breath."

He cited tough new provincial legislation controlling consumer protection, the environment, the labor code and he complained about Quebec's minimum wage — the highest in North America.

Stan Lim talks about Sales Volume and the Customer

Last year Empress Pontiac Buick GMC sold more cars and more trucks than any other dealer on Vancouver Island. So far in the 1979 model year our new vehicle volume is up 41.1%! That is a testimonial to the high degree of public acceptance of GM products and of the Empress standards of doing business.

Because of this high sales rate on new vehicles, we have taken lots of fresh trades and right now, have a better selection of used cars and trucks than we have had for a long time.

New or Used, NOW is a good time to buy from Empress.

Dealers Face Stiff Terms

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Monique Begin said Wednesday that the government would take effective measures to discourage drug users and suppliers even after a bill to ease penalties for possession of marijuana became law.

"Other corrective steps can be applied making other points of the chain with access to marijuana far more stringent," she told a Commons committee.

Marijuana suppliers and traffickers could, for example, receive stiffer fines and prison sentences to discourage a national drug free-for-all after passage of the bill, she said later in an interview.

Meanwhile Conservative Robert Wenman, MP for the British Columbia riding of Fraser Valley West, accused Miss Begin of "washing her hands" of a proposed program to control and treat heroin addicts in his province.

Under the controversial program addicts can be compelled to undergo up to three years of treatment. It was scheduled to begin in January but has been postponed.

Citing figures showing 61 per cent of heroin users are in B.C. with offences related to heroin up 67 per cent in 1978 over the previous year, Wenman said the province deserves special attention because of its urgent drug problem.

'Maggie Making Mockery Of Law'

OTTAWA (CP) — The alleged pot-smoking of Margaret Trudeau at 24 Sussex Drive shows the bankruptcy and hyprocrisy of marijuana laws, a spokesman for the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws in Canada said today.

"Her actions, should they be true; indicate how bankrupt this laws is," Andy Rapoch, the organization's executive director, said at a news conference.

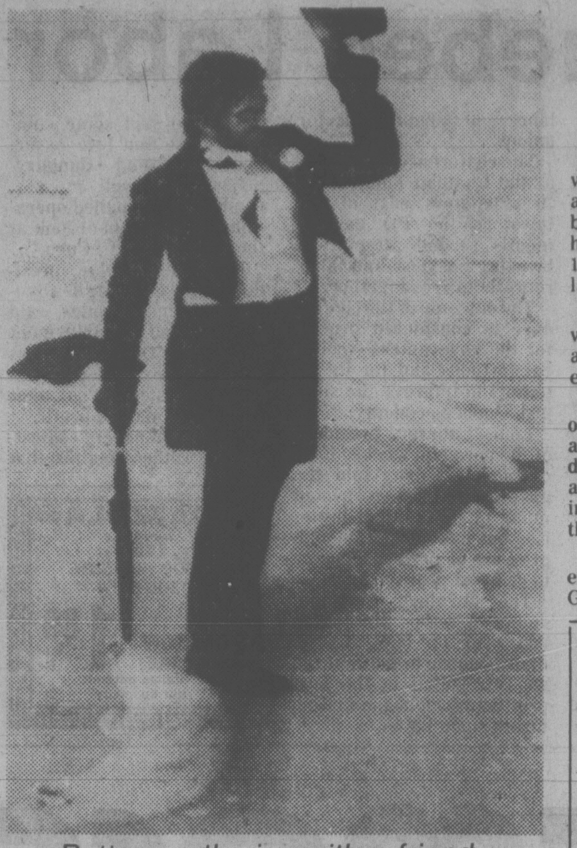
The estranged wife of the prime minister has been quoted in foreign publications as saying she smoked marijuana at the prime minister's official Ottawa home. RCMP guards were aware of her smoking, Mrs. Trudeau is quoted as saying.

Rapoch urged the government to remove marijuana from the Criminal Code before Parliament is dissolved for an election so possession of the drug would become a minor instead of a criminal offence.

Justice Minister Marc Lalonde has repeatedly pledged to introduce such legislation. The Progressive Conservatives and New Democratic Party have agreed to support such a bill.

Lalonde said last month the nine-member Social Credit party was refusing to give its consent for speedy passage of the proposed legislation.

A Starched-Shirt Protest



Button on the ice with a friend

ST. ANTHONY, Nfld. (CP) — It was something that veteran sealers and fisheries officers had never seen before — a man in a tuxedo and top hat with a rolled umbrella on the ice 15 nautical miles from the nearest land.

The man in the starched white shirt was Clarence Button of St. John's and his gambit may have succeeded.

Button, a member of the Codpeace organization formed to poke fun at anti-sealing protesters, was trying to defuse the more serious news media attention attracted by a seal-marking carried out by Ed Chavies of the Greenpeace Foundation.

Chavies, owner of the single federal observer's permit issued to Greenpeace for a visit to the seal hunt about 130 nautical miles north of here, made several marks on a seal pup with green dye.

Alf Ollerhead, a fisheries officer assigned to accompany Chavies, immediately revoked the Greenpeace permit and ordered Chavies to return here to the temporary headquarters of the seven-member protest group.

Cal Whalen, western Newfoundland federal fisheries director in charge of the hunt, said actions by both Chavies and Button would be reviewed by the department.

Chavies's action represented what probably will be the only anti-sealing protest on the ice at the Front this year. Chavies said later that unless the group could come up with another move, they would leave in a day or two.

Button said he had not touched a seal.

Under federal regulations, holders of observers permits, including reporters, may not interfere with a seal.

Chavies said in an interview Wednesday night he does not believe that Codpeace actions have detracted from Greenpeace protests.

"It's pretty ridiculous to have somebody in a tuxedo walking in all that carnage," Chavies said. "This turns seal killing into another joke, an irreverence.

In Newfoundland, all political parties, fishermen and community organizations hold that the seal hunt is necessary on both a social and economic level.

Canada's Apathy Scored

Canadians — seen from the United Nations stage — appear self-centred and apathetic, William H. Barton, Canada's ambassador to the UN, said here Tuesday.

But the poor nations of the world may force this country to take greater interest in UN affairs because Canada must be part of the new economic order demanded by the Third World, the 61-year-old envoy said.

Barton was interviewed during a speaking visit arranged by the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and the UN Association, in co-operation with the University of Victoria. He has travelled to principal western cities and ends his tour this week in Calgary.

Barton said he recognizes part of his role is to make Canadians aware of what is being done at the UN, particularly in looking after Canadian interests.

"I am very conscious of the fact in recent years there is combined apathy and dissatisfaction with the UN. I think it is misplaced.

"Canadians should be concerned, and I don't see it happening. I get the impression Canadians are very introverted these days, concerned about their own affairs," Barton said.

He thought part of the reason might be the fact that no Canadian newspaper or news service has a permanent correspondent at the UN, someone who is familiar with the issues and able to write competently about them. Barton said it disturbed him that there is not enough interest. Papers supporting the Canadian Press "just won't spend the money."

Canadians are interested in peace and security and the general economic advancement of all peoples, but these objectives only succeed by the measure of what is put into them. The UN can only do what the member nations want it to do, the ambassador said.

Canada still must deal with the other UN countries which have grown from 50 western-oriented nations to a family of 151 with two-thirds at the poverty level. One-third of the members are African states.

These nations are "interested in a full belly and realignment of resources," before peace and security. They want access to markets, stabilization of commodities and demand a more co-operative arrangement with trading nations.

They are also forcing UN attention on the end of colonialism and apartheid in Africa, Barton said, noting that Rhodesia and Namibia are the focal points at present.

Confrontation does not work, but it takes a long time to realize that, he said, using the Middle East to illustrate.

Rhodes Unable to Form Intent to Kill: Doctor

A Vancouver psychiatrist told an assize court jury Wednesday that Sidney Blair Rhodes, 22, did not have the ability to form an intent to stab Susan Marie Calve, 17, to death Oct. 12 in a wood beside Cedar Hill golf course.

Dr. James Tyhurst said there was a loss of control of behavior brought on by the effects of MDA and alcohol and he was also taking into account the fact that Rhodes and Calve were friends and that death occurred in a public place in mid-afternoon.

"In my opinion," he testified, "there was no operation of the conscious will directing an overt act."

The word intent was defined in court by Mr. Justice D.E. Andrews as the operation of the will directing an overt act.

The probability that there was a sexual assault just prior to the stabbing was low, Tyhurst said.

He said it was his opinion that Rhodes, who is accused of first-degree murder, was not capable of forming an intent to commit a sexual offence at the time.

He agreed that he based his answers and opinions on Rhodes statement that he drank 16 to 20 glasses of beer and swallowed six "hits" or about 900 milligrams of the chemical drug MDA in three hours before running into Calve.

He said this quantity of MDA taken at intervals over three hours would produce a stimulating effect and euphoria at first followed by increasing excitement and there may be outbursts of aggressive or manic behavior or the development of abnormal thinking.

Such a dosage may produce hallucinations and things may appear double, triple or quadruple.

He described MDA as a compound belonging to the amphetamine group and is a stimulant. Alcohol, however, is a depressant.

Under a combination of the two, he said, an individual's control is lost because the individual is not able to control the push of activities that are being stimulated by the drug.

He said Rhodes has a long-standing mental illness which he called borderline personality organization, or a personality disorder.

Tyhurst summarized his findings as showing impulsivity, poor judgment, compulsive use of various drugs from an early age, at least two suicide attempts, unstable personal relationships, a tendency to anger, a deep feeling of insecurity and uncertainty, an identity disturbance and instability of mood.

He said Rhodes was hyperactive as a child, given to temper tantrums, and was raised in a home where there was constant conflict. His school record was poor and he left at Grade 9. His work record was not very good because he has no skills.

Rhodes comments in his testimony about the death were consistent with loss of control given the ingestion of alcohol and MDA and his words were typical of a sense of unreality and lacking conscious volition.

He said he did not find it surprising, in the circumstances, that when Rhodes returned home he offered untrue explanations about what had happened.

He could assist in drywalling at the home by carrying boards four hours after the end of the drinking and drug taking because an appearance of normality was easier to maintain because he was "coming down" and he would be concerned at that point that he did not arouse suspicion.

Tyhurst said it was entirely consistent with his opinions that Rhodes would return to the scene of the killing to see if that was what actually happened.

He also said that suddenly bringing up the subject of rape and murder at a party the next day was not inconsistent with what he has said about Rhodes and represented swaggering and aggressive talk which was not atypical and such sexual talk was not uncommon in the amphetamine sub-culture.

Before the Judge

A 27-year-old Saanich man was remanded in custody until today, after being charged in provincial court Wednesday with causing bodily harm with intent to wound, maim or disfigure in connection with a shooting Tuesday night.

David Lockhart, 259 Obed, appeared before Judge Gilbert Hogg and was remanded until today for possible bail hearing.

Saanich police were called to a house in the 200-block Obed shortly after 11 p.m. following the report of a shot.

Four more days were set for the preliminary hearing into a charge of first-degree murder against 19-year-old Tommy Ross Jr.

The hearing opened March 5 but was adjourned after four days to fix continuation dates. The hearing has now been set to resume April 23 before Judge William Ostler.

Dan Poulsen, 31, of 578 Paradise, was fined $350 and placed on six months' probation after pleading guilty to possession of stolen marine items.

Crown counsel Robert Mulligan told Hogg an outboard motor, depth sounder and CB radio were stolen from two vessels moored at Cheanuh Marina in Sooke on July 5.

Police found the $500 motor at Esquimalt Trading and Gift Shop Ltd., 897 Esquimalt, where Poulsen had pawned it for $50.

The depth sounder and CB radio were recovered at Poulsen's home, Mulligan said.

A 28-year-old man who was on parole at the time was given five days in jail for shoplifting.

Mulligan said Cameron went to Woolworths, 1200 Douglas, on March 2, tried on a $21.95 pair of blue jeans and walked out wearing them and without paying.

Mulligan said Cameron was sentenced to three years in jail for two counts of drug trafficking on Feb. 21, 1977, and was on parole at the time.

A 17-year-old who ripped his pants jumping over a fence and decided to steal another pair was given a suspended sentence and 20 hours of community service work after pleading guilty to shoplifting.

Mulligan said Gregory Raymond Turlock, 2949 Orillia, was caught outside The Bay after stealing a pair of pants March 2.

Turlock said he was heading for the Dancer's Discotheques, 721 Fisgard, when he decided to take a shortcut by jumping a fence. But he he ripped his pants badly and didn't know what to do. He decided to go into The Bay and take the pants, he told the judge.

A 17-year-old girl who swore at her mother and then at police was given a suspended sentence and two months' probation.

Barbara Ann Curtis, 327 Raynor, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by using obscene language.

Court was told city police were called to the scene of a minor accident in the 1200-block Langley on the afternoon of March 2.

While officers were making out the accident reports, Mulligan said, Curtis used abusive language at her mother, who was one of the drivers involved. The girl then directed her foul language at police, Mulligan said, leading to the charge.

A 49-year-old man was sentenced to seven weekends in jail after pleading guilty to his second drinking-driving conviction in just over two years.

Sidney William Jackson, 2790 Ronald, was involved in a single-car accident Feb. 7 at Sooke and Glen Lake roads after he went around a curve too fast and struck a power pole, Mulligan said.

Gourmet Dinner in a Rush

Homemade flavor used to mean that there was a cook in the kitchen for most of the day watching over pots and pans, stirring, stirring, stirring. Now the family cook is probably at work during the day. She would still like to serve her family a dinner that tastes homemade, but she has less than an hour to put it together.

Impossible? Not at all. With the help of modern convenience food items, the working wife can serve "fast family food" such as the delicious menu of smoked pork chops with rice, tossed salad and peach cobbler.

Smoked pork chops and rice is a tasty entree that can be completely prepared in less than an hour. Brown chops in a large skillet. Remove, add onion, pepper and rice to the same skillet. Cook until tender. Add the garden-fresh flavor of tomato sauce and seasonings. Heat to boil. Place pork chops on top of rice. Cover dish and gently boil 15 to 20 minutes.

That's all there is to it! While the entree is cooking, toss a fast salad. Canned sliced baby tomatoes supply a springtime touch in between garden seasons. Toss with greens and an oil and vinegar dressing.

Homemade peach cobbler adds about a quarter of an hour's preparation time to this dinner, but it's time well spent. For greatest efficiency, make this dessert first. Put it in the oven to bake while you're preparing and eating the main course.

Make a heavy syrup as directed. Stir in canned peaches flavored with nutmeg. Pour into a casserole. Top with a cobbler made the quick and easy way. Combine buttermilk or biscuit baking mix with sugar and butter. Add liquefied instant nonfat milk for protein richness. Stir and drop by spoonfuls on top of peaches. Put cobbler in the oven and start the pork chops.

The family will be enjoying "homemade flavor in just an hour!"

SMOKED PORK CHOPS AND RICE

(Makes 4 servings)

4 (about 4 ounces each) smoked pork chops
2 tablespoons oil
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1¼ cups quick brown rice
1 cup (8-ounce can) tomato sauce
1 cup water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Brown pork chops in oil in large skillet. Remove from skillet; keep warm. Add onion, green pepper and rice to same skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until vegetables are tender. Add tomato sauce, water, salt, and pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat; place pork chops on top of rice mixture. Cover, boil gently 15-20 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed.

PEACH COBBLER

(Makes 2-quart casserole)

¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 can (29 ounces) sliced peaches in heavy syrup
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups buttermilk baking mix
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons softened butter
⅔ cup liquid instant nonfat milk

Combine ¼ cup sugar and cornstarch in medium saucepan. Drain peaches; stir syrup (about 1½ cups) into sugar mixture. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in nutmeg and drained peaches. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Combine baking mix and the 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Add liquid instant milk; stir to mix. Drop by heaping tablespoons on top of peaches. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm.

Super-Rich Crackers

A super-rich, delicate cracker that can be eaten alone or with a glass of sherry.

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
5 tablespoons milk
1 egg white, slightly beaten
Poppy seeds

1. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Work in butter using finger tips or pastry blender.

2. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Dough will be very soft. Divide into 2 portions and chill well. Pat dough onto floured surface and roll to ⅛-inch thick. Cut into diamond shape. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with poppy seeds.

3. Place in a lightly greased baking sheet and bake at 400 degrees 10 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 5 dozen crackers.

Can halt baldness Finnish scientists say

LONDON—Two Finnish scientists said they have developed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product called Bioscal contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hairs and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

'Beefe, Gooce and Pigge Pyes'

By LORNA J. SASS

NEW YORK — "In number of dishes and change of meat, the nobilitie of England (whose cookes are for the most part musicall-headed Frenchmen and strangers) doo most exceed," exclaimed William Harrison in his Description of England in Shakespeare's Youth in 1577. Now, thanks to a series of facsimile reprints published by Walter J. Johnson Inc., the cookbooks consulted in kitchens of Shakespeare's contemporaries are available to any modern cook with the desire to taste "tartes of spinage" and the patience to read recipes in old English type.

Because they were daily subjected to the perils of spitting grease and wanton flames, few early printed cookbooks have survived. In fact, some of the volumes reprinted in this series were photographed from what appear to be unique copies. Such truly rare antiquarian books have hitherto been available only to scholars willing and able to visit libraries thousands of miles from hearth and home.

Consequently, it is welcome news that Walter J. Johnson has seen fit to include four attractively bound Elizabethan cookbooks (hard-cover) and a 16th-century treaties on carving (soft-cover) in his reprint series entitled The English Experience, 1475-1640.

The earliest cookbook of the group is A Book of Cookrye ($8 U.S.), published in 1591 by an author who identifies himself as A.W. Our appetites are whetted at the beginning of this dainty volume — early cookbooks were often pocket-size so that they could easily be slipped into the cook's apron — with a list of suggested menus.

For dinner, A.W. suggests a first course of "Potage or stewed broth, boiled or stewed meat, chickins and bacon, powdred (salted) beefe, gooce and pigge pyes, rosted beefe and veale, and custard." These dishes are to be followed by a second course of "rosted lamb and capons, chickins, pehennes, and bakte venison tart."

In fair weather, after the two main courses of the midday meal, wealthy Elizabethans were in the habit of retiring to an outdoor gazebo where they could feast their eyes and palate on "banqueting conceits." For this grand finale to the meal, cooks often molded colored marzipan into diminutive landscapes or scenes depicting aspects of the honored guests' lives.

Those patriots who consider themselves as "American as apple pie" may be dismayed to discover the recipe "To Make a Pippin Pye" in J. Murrell's A New Booke of Cookerie ($7 U.S.) published in 1615: "Take their weight in Sugar, and sticke a whole Clove in every piece of them, and put in pieces or whole Sinamon, then put in all your Sugar, with a slice or two of whole Ginger: sprinkle Rosewater on them before you close your Pye: bake them, and serve them in."

Aside from the rose water (whose ubiquitous presence in Elizabethan recipes may be explained as a passing culinary bow to the Tudor rose), the flavorings added to American apple pie closely resemble those mentioned in Murrell's recipe.

In fact, the recipes for open-hearth cookery done at the reconstructed Plimoth (cq) Plantation are all taken from the 1615 edition of gervase Markham's The English Hus-wife ($25 U.S.) one of the most comprehensive manuals of the period.

Since a multitude of tasks fell within the housewife's domain, books like Markham's and Thomas Dawson's 1596 edition of The Good Huswifes Jewell. ($14 U.S.) contain sections on "house-hold physicke," gardening, preserving, distilling, dairying and candy making. On the other hand, The Book of Kervynge ($8 U.S.) published in 1508, dictated that all carving was to be done by men.

All five reprints may be ordered by mail from Walter J. Johnson Inc., 355 Chestnut St., Norwood, N.J. 17648. Prices includes postage and handling.

WHAT HAPPENS IN YOUR HOUSEHOLD when one of the family has stomach cramps, nausea and diarrhea? If you are among the thousands of Canadians who have used FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, then you know the answer, Pleasant-tasting Fowler's Extract is a non-constipating restorative formula, based on roots and herbs. It acts quickly to bring gentle relief to both children and adults from these uncomfortable symptoms, which are quite often caused by changes in food, water or even excitement. So why not do as so many Canadians have for over 130 years... keep Fowler's Extract on hand at all times.

CREAM ROUGH HANDS AWAY FAST WITH ATRIXO. Water, wind, sun, detergent, abrasives. There is no way for your hands to avoid them. They leave your hands dry and rough by robbing your skin of its vital protective oils. That's why your hands need Atrixo, the triple action hand cream. Atrixo provides the moisture your skin cries out for. It's a carefully blended formulation of glycerine, silicone and emollients needed to protect, soften and beautify Canadian hands. Just a little of this most effective hand cream and you'll feel the difference immediately.

ATRIXO, TRIPLE ACTION HAND CREAM...YOU'LL FEEL THE DIFFERENCE IMMEDIATELY.

Here's a fantastically easy to prepare dessert treat called Winnipeg Wacky Cake. It comes from a dear friend of mine who lives in Winnipeg and she is every bit as wacky as her recipe. Do try it. I'm sure you will really like it. Into a sifter put: 1½ cups flour, 1 cup white sugar, 3 tbsp. cocoa, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. baking soda, ¼ tsp. salt. Then sift all ingredients into an ungreased 8 x 8 pan. Now make three holes: 1st hole — 1 tbsp. vinegar. 2nd hole — 1 tsp. vanilla. 3rd hole — 5 tbsp. melted shortening (or vegetable oil). Pour overall 1 cup lukewarm water and stir until smooth. Bake 325°-30 minutes. I like to add raisins or chopped nuts, if I have them on hand.

Stir-Fried Crab: An Oriental Gem

Fish and seafood have a curious habit of thriving in one set of waters and floundering — no pun intended — in others. The sole of the English Channel do not thrive in North American waters although efforts have been made to cultivate them here. North American lobsters are choosy, too, about their habitat.

One form of seafood that seems to thrive everywhere and, in one way or another, appears in almost every cuisine is crab, one of the most luscious of God's creatures.

FLOWERS AROUND THE SNOW
(Stir-fried crab in milk)

1½ teaspoons cornstarch
1¼ cups milk
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
¾ pound fresh, picked-over crab meat
½ cup chives cut into half-inch lengths.
½ cup peanut, vegetable or corn oil, plus fat for deep frying
1 two-ounce package bean threads (cellophane noodles)
1 tablespoon dried rose petals, optional

1. Put the egg whites in a mixing bowl. Beat lightly with a fork or chopsticks.

2. Separately blend the cornstarch with half a cup of milk, a little at a time. When blended, add this to the eggs.

3. Add the remaining milk. Add the salt and sugar and beat well.

4. Add the crab and half the chives and blend well. Set aside.

5. When ready to serve, heat the fat for deep frying. Break the bean threads into three portions. Set one portion aside for another use. Add the other portions, one at a time, to the hot fat. Cook about two seconds on one side and turn. Cook about two deconds and turn. Quickly lift from the fat and place on a round serving platter. Repeat with second portion.

6. Heat half a cup of oil in a wok and when hot, add the egg-white mixture. Cook, using a flat stirring spoon and stir gently and slowly, pushing the mixture from the outside toward the center, about three or four minutes.

7. Transfer to the center of the fried bean threads. Garnish with the rose petals and the remaining chives.

CRAB AND NOODLES AU GRATIN

1 pound lump or backfin crab meat
6 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
Salt and freshly ground pepper
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup heavy cream
1 egg yolk
⅓ cup sherry wine, preferably medium sweet
¾ pound fine noodles
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese.

1. Preheat oven to 450 degrees.

2. Melt four tablespoons butter in a saucepan and add the flour, stirring with a wire whisk. When blended, add the milk, stirring rapidly with the whisk. Add salt and pepper to taste, the cayenne, nutmeg and cream. Bring to the boil and simmer, stirring occasionally, about five minutes.

3. Remove the sauce from the heat and add the yolk, stirring rapidly with the whisk. Add the wine.

4. Meanwhile, cook the noodles in boiling salted water until just tender.

5. Drain the noodles and return them to the kettle. Stir in the remaining two tablespoons butter and about half a cup of sauce. Spoon the noodles into a baking dish and smooth them over. Scatter the crab meat over the noodles. Spoon the remaining sauce over all. Sprinkle with cheese and bake 25 minutes or until piping hot. Run the dish under the broiler to get a brown glaze.

Yield: Four to six servings.

CRAB GUMBO

4 to 6 ears fresh corn
2 tablespoons bacon fat
¾ cup finely chopped onion
⅛ teaspoon finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped pepper
4 tomatoes, cored and chopped, about four cups
Salt and freshly ground pepper
1 teaspoon or more Worcestershire sauce
2 cups fish broth or use 2 cups bottled clam broth
1 cup water
Tabasco sauce
½ pound or more crab meat, preferably lump or backfin
5 tablespoons dry sherry wine
Cooked rice

1. Drop the corn into boiling water to cover and return the water to the boil. Remove from the heat and let stand five minutes. Drain. Cut the kernels from the cob and set aside.

2. Heat the bacon fat in a skillet. Cut the okra, fresh or frozen, into half-inch lengths. Add to the skillet and cook, stirring often, about 10 to 15 minutes until it is quite dry.

3. Meanwhile, heat the butter in a skillet and add the onion, garlic, celery and green pepper. Cook, stirring, until onion is wilted.

4. Add the tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste, Worcestershire sauce, broth and water. Add Tabasco to taste and bring to the boil. simmer 40 minutes.

5. Stir in the crab and heat thoroughly.

Beef Too High? Then Try Pork

OTTAWA (CP) — Many supermarkets are offering specials on pork just now, so shoppers looking for an alternative to high-priced beef might want to become more familiar with the various cuts, says a spokesman for the food advisory division of Agriculture Canada.

Shoulder roasts are the lowest-priced pork roasts. The picnic shoulder comes from the lower part of the shoulder and contains a round bone which may be removed, leaving a pocket for stuffing.

Pork tenderloin — the highest-priced cut — usually is served on a special occasion. It is a long, tapering, slender, tender piece of lean meat from the loin, sold in one piece or sliced.

Pregnant Dieting May Harm Baby

Food for Thought

By DR. JEAN MAYER and DR. JOHANA DWYER

Not long ago we reviewed do's and don'ts of eating during pregnancy. One of the rules — don't go on a self-imposed reducing diet while pregnant — provoked a number of letters. Here is a quote from a typical one:

"I was overweight before I became pregnant. Even if it is normal to gain 24 to 30 pounds during pregnancy, I am already overweight by much more than that. Shouldn't I be trying to lose?"

Most of the weight you gain during pregnancy is not fat tissue. The fetus itself usually weighs about 7.5 pounds; the placenta averages 1.3 pounds and the amniotic fluid adds 0.7 pounds. In addition, there is an increase of 3.5 pounds in uterine weight. 0.8 pounds in increased weight of the breasts, and some 8.5 pounds in increased blood and fluids needed to meet the needs of pregnancy. All this adds up to about 24 pounds.

Even if the mother is overweight when she becomes pregnant, there is evidence that a normal amount of weight gain is best for the baby. Therefore, although there may be some rare exceptions, it's usually better to wait until after the baby is safely delivered to reduce.

In any case, it is particularly unwise to go on a self-imposed low-calorie diet. The usual low-calorie diet simply does not provide enough energy for the normal essential weight gain of pregnancy. And it is also apt to be low in essential nutrients, which are needed in considerably increased amounts during pregnancy. What's more, the very nature of some of these diets can cause serious problems.

A particularly serious example is the currently popular modified fasting diet, which is very low in carbohydrates and calories and high in protein, usually in the form of powdered or liquid protein supplements. These diets lead to mild ketosis — a state in which the body utilizes its fat stores very quickly. While mild ketosis in a non-pregnant woman may not be harmful if it is induced under a physician's direction, it is nothing to try on one's own because it has many side effects, including fatigue, dizziness, dehydration and even more serious consequences in those with certain health problems.

In addition, these modified fasting diets do not meet the needs for vitamins, potassium and other minerals, even for a non-pregnant woman. In fact, lack of potassium may be so great that heart action is seriously affected. There have been several cases of sudden death attributed to these diets.

While these are serious side effects for anyone, it now appears that they are even more dangerous during pregnancy. Researchers have found that pregnant women respond differently to even animal caloric restriction. For instance, after an overnight fast, pregnant women have been found to have higher blood ketone levels, perhaps because of the constant demands of the fetus for glucose (blood sugar) and other sources of energy. The effects of this ketosis on the fetus are not entirely clear, but there is evidence that suggests excessive ketosis may be harmful.

Two separate studies have shown that babies born to diabetics and other women who were subjected to ketosis during pregnancy lagged in mental development, even into early childhood. Since the problem has been seen in non-diabetic women who had ketosis, it appears that diabetes alone cannot be blamed. Also, Children of mon-ketosis diabetes do not share the problem. Since the differences in IQ's are as much as 10 points, avoiding situations leading to ketosis during pregnancy seems well justified.

But, you may ask, what about other low-caloric reducing diets during pregnancy? There are reasons to suspect that thaese may not be a good idea. For example, optimal use of protein during pregnancy requires that the diet provide at least 15 calories for each pound of the mother's weight, and most reducing diets simply do not supply that much energy.

Please understand that all this does not mean some pregnant women may not need to watch their weight . if you fall into this category, your doctor may suggest moderate decreases in food intake that still permit weight gain, but within bounds. However, we re-emphasize that this is a matter for a doctor to decide, and even obese pregnant women should carefully follow such suggestions.

Remember, too, that much of the weight gained during pregnancy will be lost at birth. Even if some fat remains it can be coped with by a sensible diet once the baby is born.

Bread Found Guilty

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Judge Robert Steigmann found a bread manufacturer guilty of contempt for the English language.

The crime: wording on the package of Butternut bread which proclaims that the loaf has "25 per cent less calories" than ordinary bread.

The phrase should read, "25 per cent fewer calories," he said.

Lists Aid Allergy Victims

OTTAWA (CP) — Allergies to certain ingredients in processed foods have long been a problem to thousands of Canadians who are afflicted and even sometimes have violent reactions to certain products.

Federal consumer packaging and labelling regulations now require food processors to identify each ingredient in a product and to list the components of each ingredient.

Food consultants in the food advisory division of Agriculture Canada say that the objective of the legislation is to identify ingredients to which certain consumers may be allergic.

Additives, such as seasonings, vitamins and minerals, coloring or preservatives if used, must be included on the label as well.

For instance, canned vegetables are prepared according to a specific quality grade and may contain a sweetening ingredient, salt, water and a firming agent.

Certain vegetables may contain other ingredients. For instance, asparagus packed in glass containers may contain stannous chloride, a flavor and color stabilizer.

The label on a can of cut green beans may state the ingredients "green beans, water and salt" whereas a can of seasoned cut green beans may list "green beans, water, dehydrated red peppers and onions, salt, monosodium glutamate, garlic and celery powder."

"Also required by government regulations are declarations such as the name of the product, the brand name and the full name and address of the packer or distributor."

Generic Foods To Double, Study Shows

TORONTO (CP) — The number of generic or no-name products will more than double this year, a marketing study says.

The study, just released, said some supermarket chains may have 200 such products by the end of the year, compared with about 29 now. No-name products were introduced about a year ago.

The study was done by the consulting company of Mathieu, Williams Associates for its own clients and Vickers and Benson Ltd. advertising agency.

It predicts generics will account for 10 per cent of total packaged grocery sales by the end of the year. It also said national brand manufacturers will be forced to branch into some generic manufacturing, seek new and improved products, or develop low-cost national brands to compete with generics.

Generic products are plainly-packaged items with cut-rate price tags and sometimes cut-rate quality. Labels specify the contents, but not the ingredients.

The study focused on generic products available in Dominion, Loblaws, Miracle Food Mart and Food City stores in Toronto and found that national brands on the average were 54 to 66 per cent more expensive than generics.

Loblaws carries the widest range of generic products with 87 items, followed by Dominion with 67, Miracle Food Mart with 36, and Food City with 29, the study said.

Any meat you prepare on a Jenn-Air tastes better because Jenn-Air's exclusive Char-Flavor grill cooks juicy, outdoor flavor into every bite. Permanent "Flavor Rocks" turn natural juices into curls of smoke that delicately bathe the meat as it grills. Smoke and odors are then quietly whisked away by the powerful built-in surface ventilation system. The result is meat that is golden brown on the outside, tender, hot and juicy on the inside. And, a kitchen that remains clean and fresh! Jenn-Air lets you do a lot more than grilling, too, with an array of deluxe accessories. Love the taste of meat grilled to char-flavored perfection? You deserve a Jenn-Air Grill-Range.

Rage at Home Saved from Job?

By L. L. Coleman, MD

My husband is a gentle person. Yet every once in a while he flares up with such anger that it terrifies me and our two young children. The worst part of these outbursts is that there is nothing that can be pinpointed that provokes them. Could it be that he takes out on us what he can't take out on the people he works with?— Mrs. H.R.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Yours may be a very valid interpretation. Certainly, the explanation lies elsewhere than in the framework of your own home, especially since you cannot trace the reasons for your husband's bouts of temper.

Such violent anger that occurs without provocation must be traced to some deep-rooted problem that has never been recognized or uncovered. Undoubtedly, after such an experience he is as angry with himself as he was with you. During these unreasonable spells I am sure it is impossible to reason with him. However, when he is in a rational, calm mood he may be gently persauded to seek the advice of his doctor, and later, that of a psychologist or psychiatrist.

Once you accomplish this your husband will ultimately be grateful for your support and for your suggestion to see these doctors. They will undoubtedly help him gain a better insight into his inner conflicts. It is remarkable how often a long-forgotten incident in childhood may be recalled, for example, to explain such abnormal behavior. Once this is brought to the surface and discussed openly, the chances are great that the explosive bouts of anger will be markedly minimized. You and the children then become the secondary beneficiaries of your husband's better understanding of himself.

One of our sons was born with an undescended testicle. He is 4. We know that an operation will eventually have ot be done. What is the best age for this operation? — Mr. N.N.S.

When you say the operation will "eventually have to be done," I must assume that you have already exhausted the other medical approaches to this problem. Sometimes, hormone injections, for example, are very effective in aiding the descent of the testicle.

During the development of the unborn child the testicles lie high in the abdomen. As pregnancy proceeds and the fetus grows, the testicles descend into the groin and then into the scrotum.

The failure of this descent is known as "crypt-orchidism." There are a number of highly refined surgical techniques by which the testicle can be brought sown into the scrotum. Sometimes, the operation is done in a single stage. In some instances, it is done in two stages. Each surgeon carefully evaluates each individual case and makes the decision about the ideal age for this operation.

In most cases, the operation is done before the age of 10 and before the child becomes aware of any "deficiency". Psychological factors are deeply involved in choosing the optimum time for the operation.

DEAR ABBY: I am 40 and my life is worth absolutely nothing. This is not just middle-age depression. I've been this way all my life. I have failed in every relationship I've ever had, beginning with my family while growing up.

I was a complete failure as a wife, too. (I cannot have children, but I probably would have failed as a mother, too.) I have failed in the business world also. I can't seem to succeed in anything.

I have really tried, Abby, but everything I do ends in failure. Suicide seems to be the only solution. Please don't tell me I need a psychiatrist. I have been going to the same one every week for 14 years, and he hasn't helped me. If he had, I wouldn't feel this way.

Other than suicide, is there any answer for someone who is so hopelessly miserable?

DISCOUAGED

DEAR DISCOURAGED: You letter tells me that you DO have hope and WANT to live.

If your doctor hasn't been able to help you after 14 years of weekly treatment, ask him to refer you to another therapist.

Please write again in two weeks, and tell me how you feel. I care.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had too much to drink last night and confessed that the reason he bought me a lovely overnight bag for Valentine's Day was because he'd bought one for his girlfriend and he felt guilty. Now I don't even want the bag.

What do you thing?

B.J.

DEAR B.J.: I think your husband should quit drinking and looking at bags.

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently remarried and told us she was selling the family farm. Because my sisters and brothers (and I) loved the farm so much, we asked her to sell it to us keep it in the family.

Without telling any of us, my mother sold the farm to a total stranger!

Abby, we are all so hurt that we are going out of our way to avoid seeing or talking to our mother.

I feel guilty about avoiding my own mother, but I just can't bring myself to forgive her. The others feel the same way.

Can you or one of your readers who experienced the same situation help us?

Right now, I don't care if I never talk to my mother again.

DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: See your mother and ask her to explain her actions and talk about her feelings frankly. Don't judge her until you have all the facts.

Parents Spot Gifted

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Bob Arkell, education consultant with the department of education, says parents are better able to identify gifted children than teachers.

Speaking to the Moose Jaw branch of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation convention, Arkell said parents have day to day contact with their children and are able to see a wide variety of behavior which they can compare with other children.

He said when the child gets to school he may not wish to appear different than the other children in the class and will act like his peers. In this case the teacher obviously could not identify a gifted child if he is hiding his potential.

Workers Canned

MACON, Ga. (UPI) — Told they could use the restroom only five times in two weeks, the 250 employees of the Cagle Poultry Co. plant walked off the job Wednesday and, as a result, were fired.

Dorothy Stanford, a former employee of Cagle, said workers were angry because company officials would not meet with them to discuss the "unjust and demeaning" restroom rules.

She said the company told employees they would be "allowed to visit the bathroom eight times in any four-week period, with a five trip limit in any two-week period."

Cornea Transplant Blamed For Rabies Fatality

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. government scientists say an Idaho woman died of rabies in the first known instance of the deadly virus being transmitted through a cornea replacement, the most common of transplants.

The report published today in the New England Journal of Medicine said the finding should spur added caution in selecting organ donors.

In the Idaho case, Constance Wesselman, a 37-year-old Boise woman, died last October — about 50 days after receiving a cornea. The donor, Frederick Stone, a 39-year-old rancher-forester from Baker, Ore., died in August.

Carter Trustee Denies Coverup

WASHINGTON (WP) — President Carter's trustee, Charles Kirbo, Wednesday acknowledged that the Carter warehouse records "reflect there were delays" in repaying a National Bank of Georgia (NBG) loan in 1975 and 1976.

But Kirbo, in a press release, said the records "do not support allegations made in The Washington Post article" published Sunday.

The Post story quoted a former bonded warehouseman for the Carter warehouse as saying the operation fell $500,000 behind in loan repayments to NBG in the spring of 1976.

Hayes said he and Billy Carter, who was running the warehouse at the time, repeatedly altered records and pledged the same collateral twice in the spring of 1976.

An independent company, Collateral Control Corp. (then known as New York Terminal Co.), employed Hayes from July, 1975 to July, 1976 to oversee the warehoused peanuts that served as collateral on the NBG loan.

Collateral Control Walter Richey said Wednesday in a telephone interview that he had reviewed his St. Paul, Minn., firm's records in light of the Post article.

Hayes had been quoted as saying, among other things, that he had erased the original dates on a number of records releasing peanuts from the warehouse for shelling and processing. He said the bank was supposed to be paid $50,000 each time any peanuts left the warehouse.

Asked if he had reviewed any warehouse releases, Richey said that he had.

Asked if he had looked for any erasures, Richey said that he had done that, too.

Asked if he had found any, Richey responded, "I wouldn't want to comment on whether erasures were found."

Richey did say, however, that "there was some delay in the processing of paperwork from time to time" at the warehouse.

Hayes had said he and Billy Carter had released some $500,000 worth of peanuts from the warehouse without making any immediate payments to the National Bank of Georgia, as required under the loan agreement.

Asked if reporters could have access to Collateral Control's records, Richey declined. "These records are strictly confidential," he said. "I have not been authorized by Mr. Kirbo to reveal anything in our records."

He said, however, that he had approved the opening paragraph of Kirbo's statement which said that a check of Collateral Control's records turned up "nothing which supports any of the allegations made by The Washington Post."

Questions about the Carter warehouse loan were raised during the current federal grand jury investigation in Atlanta of the banking affairs of former budget director Bert Lance.

Lance arranged for the Carter warehouse loan soon after he became president of NBG in January 1975. As much as $3.7 million was borrowed on the credit line in 1976, and it became NBG's largest loan outstanding.

Sohio Spurs Alaska Push

Times News Services

Alaska officials Wednesday pushed harder for permission to sell North Slope oil to Japan following Standard Oil Co. of Ohio's cancellation of a $1-billion, California-to-Texas pipeline.

"Now that Sohio is out, it would seem to be further evidence of the need for moving oil and alleviating the surplus on the West Coast one way or another," said Gov. Jay Hammond.

Sohio said Tuesday that the proposed pipeline, which would have sent Alaska oil to the U.S. Gulf Coast more cheaply than shipping it via the Panama canal, was scrapped because of government red tape.

Alaska wants to ship 150,000 barrels of oil a day — about 10 per cent of the total produced in the state — to Japan. In exchange, Mexican oil earmarked for Japan would be shipped to the Gulf Coast, cutting the cost of shipping through the Panama canal — about $1 a barrel, Sohio said.

The plan, however, has been opposed by Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, and faces stiff opposition by congressmen who don't want the U.S. exporting Alaska oil while importing so heavily from other countries.

However, Bob LeResche, Alaska's natural resources commissioner, said state consultants will meet with Carter administration officials and congressmen in Washington next week to discuss the swap proposal.

Many industry experts believe Alaska oil will not significantly reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil unless some plan is developed to distribute it more evenly across the country.

In a related development, a hearing in Olympia, Wash., was told Wednesday that an oil pipeline the size of the one the Northern Tier Pipeline Co. proposes to run from Port Angeles to Minnesota is too big.

Without mentioning Northern Tier by name, D. T. Durrant of the Trans Mountain Oil Pipeline Corp., a competing firm, told federal officials there is no need for the pipeline Northern Tier proposes, especially since it would run outside existing pipeline routes.

"It is unnecessary to take on this additional environmental risk," Durrant said at a Bureau of Land Management hearing on a Northern Tier environmental impact statement.

Bob Leufkens, a Seattle construction worker, was the only person to speak in support of the Northern Tier pipeline. He said he was looking for work.

Censorship Curtain Descending in Iran

TEHRAN (AP) — The Iranian government imposed censorship on news films and photographs being sent abroad today and said it will deport U.S. feminist Kate Millet, who called the Ayatollah Khomeini a male chauvinist.

Deputy Premier Abbas Amir Entezam said a committee was set up to review news films and pictures before they are sent aboard to ensure the government is depicted objectively and in a good light.

Speaking to a meeting of local journalists, Entezam said there had been "no decision yet" whether news reports also would be censored before they were sent aboard.

He criticized a film report by the American Broadcasting Co. of a recent protest march by women saying it showed only the "violent scenes and not the peaceful scenes."

Entezam said said Ms. Millet would be expelled from Iran for "provocations against the Islamic revolution."

The 44-year-old author of Sexual Politics arrived in Iran last week to support Iranian women demanding equal rights from the new Islamic government. Her chief contribution to the fight was a news conference last Sunday at which she said:

"The Pope and Ayatollah Khomeini are male chauvinists, because as leaders they are attempting to curtail women's rights."

Entezam also said that another American, leftist Ralph Schoenman, was deported early today on an Iranair flight to London.

"We have documents in hand proving that Schoenman was associated with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency," Ebtezam said.

Consumer Slavery Threatened: Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In his first encyclical, Pope John Paul warned today that technologically advanced consumer societies threaten to make human beings "the slave of things."

He also assailed countries that give "only atheism the right of citizenship," pledged the church to defend human freedom, condemned the widening gap between rich and poor and denounced the arms buildup.

"We all know well," he said, "that the areas of misery and hunger on our globe could have been made fertile in a short time if the gigantic investments for armaments at the service of war and destruction had been changed into investments for food at the service of life."

The 18,000-word encyclical, an authoritative form of papal teaching, was addressed to the world's Roman Catholics and also to "all men and women of good will."

In it, the Pope from Communist Poland specified no countries by name, but said "the curtailment and violation of religious freedoms are in contrast with man's dignity and his objective rights . . .

"It is therefore difficult, even from a purely human point of view, to accept a position that gives only atheism the right of citizenship in public and social life, while believers are . . . barely tolerated or are treated as second-class citizens or are even — and this has already happened — entirely deprived of the rights of citizenship."

In the "name of all believers," he appealed to governments everywhere to "respect the rights of religion and of the church's activity."

The Pope said the modern age has brought "a time of great progress" but also "a time of threat in many forms for man."

Already, he said, there is a "real perceptible danger" of man becoming "subject to manipulation in many ways" by organizational, production and communication systems.

"Man cannot relinquish himself or the place in the visible world that belongs to him. He cannot become the slave of things, the slave of economic systems, the slave of production, the slave of his own products.

"A civilization purely materialistic in outline condemns man to such slavery . . . It is a matter of the whole dynamism of life and civilization."

—Condemned the "lack of respect for the life of the unborn;"

—Appealed to Roman Catholic priests who "knowingly and freely commit ourselves to live in celibacy" to uphold that tradition;

—Voiced strong support for ecumenical efforts for Christian unity, despite objections by some to it.

The Pope said the "rich highly developed" consumer societies have surpluses to spare while other societies suffer hunger, misery, starvation and malnutrition.

He called for an "effective search" for greater economic justice whether through trade and "healthy competition" or by a "wider and more immediate redistribution of riches and control over them" to meet needs of poorer countries.

Instead of this, he said, they are provided with weapons and means of destruction as a "form of chauvinism, imperialism and neocolonialism of one kind or another."

The Pope said human rights are a measure of social justice and he denounced "concentration camps, violence, torture, terrorism and discrimination."

Four Boys and Dog Packing Box Sailors

BEIRUT (AP) — Four boys and a scruffy-looking dog were recovering from dehydration and exposure today after spending more than four days in a refrigerator packing crate adrift in the Mediterranean.

They were rescued Wednesday by fisherman Hussein Ballout and his son, who could not believe their eyes when they approached the big white box floating some 33 kilometres off the coast and saw eight flailing arms.

Officials in Tripoli, where the boys, aged six to 11, were recovering in a hospital, gave this account:

The boys, one Lebanese and three Armenians, were playing on a beach in the northern Beirut suburb of Dora last Saturday afternoon when they came across a large fibreglass crate at the edge of the seashore. Inside was a scruffy looking mongrel.

They climbed inside to play with the dog in their new "hideout." They barely noticed the tide come in and gently lift the box away from land.

Terrified, the boys cried and argued about what to do. Night came and they fell asleep. When they awoke in the morning, there was no land in sight.

As the day passed, 10-year-old Georgio Tachjian tried to catch fish swimming alongside their box with his hands but without success. As the boys grew hungrier, they became leery of the dog.

"If we were so hungry, maybe the dog was, too, and he would try to eat us," reasoned the eldest, 11-year-old Youssef Kadakhah.

The boys decided the dog would have to go, so they threw him overboard. The dog swam back and scrambled aboard. They threw him back, and he returned again. After the fourth attempt, the boys took pity and voted that he could stay.

Judge Files Nader's Legal Teeth

WASHINGTON (WP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has ruled that consumer organizations founded and run by Ralph Nader have no legal right to file lawsuits on behalf of the general public.

The decision was described as "unprecedented" and "unfortunate" by Nader aides, who said it could restrict the power of public-interest groups to challenge government authorities in court.

Implicitly criticizing Nader's one-man rule over the consumer groups he heads, Sirica said a democratically organized group, with dues-paying members and elected officers, would have a legitimate right to sue on behalf of its members, representing the public at large.

But Sirica noted, the Nader groups involved in the case have no dues-paying members and no elected officers.

"Mr. Nader would hardly be in a position to seriously argue that his contributors or supporters exercise any substantial degree of even indirect control over such organizations," Sirica said.

Inasmuch as Nader started the organizations, appointed their officers and runs them under tight personal control, the groups cannot claim to represent consumers as a whole, Sirica said.

Sirica's decision came in a lawsuit against Food and Drug Administrator Donald Kennedy by two of Nader's Washington organizations, Public Citizen — Nader's umbrella fund-raising agency — and Health Research Group — a medical consumers' association.

Grenada Reported Peaceful

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (UPI) — Revolutionary troops in green military uniforms combed the streets of St. George's today to maintain calm since the 30-minute coup d'etat that crushed the government of Prime Minister Eric Gairy, the kingpin of Grenada's politics for more than a quarter century.

Maurice Bishop, the self-proclaimed leader of the new People's Revolutionary Government, ordered the reopening of the international airport and businesses were operating as usual around the 133-square mile, spice-exporting Caribbean island.

Bishop announced that the police headquaters, the last pocket of resistance, had surrendered along with other Gairy loyalists on the island.

"The old Gairy government has collapsed and its members have surrendered to us," Bishop announced.

There were no new reported incidents of violence.

Hollywood Secrets No Longer Untouchable

Scott's World

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Robert Stack stars in 1941, a new movie about which he can say little except that he portrays Gen. Vinegar Joe Stillwell in a comedy about Southern California panic following the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The reason for secrecy, according to Stack, is the rampant thievery of ideas by television and other movie companies.

"Television is a scabrous medium," said Stack, who starred for years in TV's The Untouchables series. "TV producers steal anything they can get their hands on.

"Movies generally take a year from a completed shooting script through production and post-production to get to the screen. A TV outfit can steal it all and get on the air in a matter of weeks.

Sometimes TV doesn't act quite fast enough. Star Wars managed to make it to the screen before it could be ripped off. Battle Star Galactica was clearly of the same genre and lawsuits are pending now.

STACK
. . . ripoff victim

"It's crazy — like the KBG and CIA. There are spies and counter-spies. It is worst in the recording industry where organized crime has moved in. The hoods can make more money overnight by stealing records than they can with dope and prostitution and it's less risky.

"They have a system of taking a hit album, copying it in their own factories and reproducing the album covers so exactly that even the artists and original record company can't tell the difference."

Stack himself has been victimized by ripoffs as evidenced in his role of the deathly-ill airline pilot in the TV movie Flight 502." It was patterned after the Airport films which had their genesis in The High and the Mighty.

"I've been asked to play the same pilot for 10 years by guys making TV movies," Stack said. "He's the same guy in the same uniform but with a different disease.

"Hell, there were a dozen copies of The Untouchables and none of them were any good. But maybe the younger generation of producers and directors will change all that."

Stack waxed lyrical about the inventiveness and originality of the young filmmakers he is working with in 1941 — producer John Milius, director Steven (Jaws) Spielberg and John (Animal House) Landis who has an acting role in the film.

6-Year Saga Of an Oil

By SAUNDRA SAPERSTEIN

WASHINGTON (WP) — One combatant says it is a $250,000 French Impressionist original. The other dismisses it as a "nice painting of haystacks," and possibly "a pretty good" copy.

Either way, both sides are fighting it out in a Baltimore courtroom to gain final possession of the painting signed "Claude Monet."

Today, a Baltimore judge is set to order that the painting be held for safekeeping in a local art gallery while Baltimore collectors Edward and Cyrile Strauss and retired Norfolk, Va., businessman Charles Burroughs prepare for legal battle over its ownership.

"It is a tragedy in the art world," Cyrile Strauss says, describing the tangled legal proceedings over the painting that she insists is Monet's Haystacks in the Evening.

A few days later, according to Strauss, Robinson's cheque bounced, and Strauss went after his painting. As time went on, they sought help from three different lawyers and, at one point, from the FBI, which he said told him, "the whole thing is so bizarre they couldn't get involved."

Strauss ultimately sued Robinson for the $55,000. Robinson, according to an affidavit filed in that lawsuit, insisted the painting was not worth that much because it was a fake.

A judge, however, ruled in Strauss' favor in January 1978, and Strauss then went to the Norfolk courts to get either his money or the painting back.

Enter Charles Burroughs. Unbeknownst to the Strausses, Burroughs claims he had bought Haystacks from Robinson in May 1976 for $2,500, believing, as he was told, that the painting was a copy.

"I wouldn't want the thing if it was real. I can't afford anything that rich," Burroughs says.

Burroughs recalled that in November 1977, Robinson came to him asking to "borrow" the painting because it was needed as evidence in a Baltimore lawsuit.

"I lent it to him, and haven't seen it since," Burroughs said.

It was also in November 1977, the Strausses claim, that they finally retrieved the painting from Robinson, and brought it happily back to their Baltimore collection of paintings.

Things were fine until a man walked into the Strausses' gallery last December and handed them a document ordering them to appear in court because a man named Burroughs wanted "his" painting.

Israel to Release 80 More Palestinians

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Israel will release 80 more Palestinian prisoners Saturday in exchange for the bodies of four Israeli soldiers killed in southern Lebanon, a Palestinian source said today.

The source said the exchange will again take place in Geneva under the supervision of the International Red Cross.

The first swap between Israel and the Palestinians took place in Geneva on Wednesday when a captive Israeli soldier was exchanged for 76 Palestinians imprisoned in Israel.

Avraham Amram, the exchanged Israeli, was captured 11 months ago during the Israeli invasion of southern Lebanon. Four other soldiers with Amram at the time were killed in a clash and it is their bodies that will be returned to Israel, the source said.

Among the Palestinians to be released is Sheik Ahmed Abu Tair, a prominent Moslem religious leader of Jerusalem, who has been in jail for nearly four years, the source said.

The exchange of prisoners marks a change in policy for Israel, which previously refused to negotiate with the Palestinians.

Highlands Rezoning Stalled

Rezoning of the Highlands district was stalled again Wednesday when the Capital Regional Board sent the bylaw back to the regional planning committee for study.

Langford director Ed Lubick proposed the referral when the bylaw came up for second reading. He said some directors felt the rezoning would contravene the regional plan.

The bylaw, already the subject of public hearings, would change most of the land back to the zoning it had before 1973 when a 45-acre minimum land freeze was imposed.

After the meeting Lubick said the referral was necessary because the rezoning affects the regional plan.

If the plan has to be amended to allow the rezoning, this would have to be done before the bylaw could proceed.

"I know it's a hardship on a number of people but we seem to have one roadblock after another," he said, adding he has worked for a year to get the rezoning.

Asked if the provincial government could postpone tax levies until the issue is decided, Lubick said he thought that would be a good idea.

During the meeting director Bob Wright took issue with a pamphlet titled The Highlands — A Unique Opportunity that had been placed in each director's folder. He said public hearings on the rezoning had already been held and such lobbying is wrong. The pamphlets were handed back on a motion by director Fred Severson although executive director Dennis Young said he didn't think they would prejudice a public hearing.

Earlier in the day at an electoral area services committee meeting director Charles Perkins suggested directors consider a proposal by the Open Space Conservation Society.

The society had proposed, as an interim measure, that property owners in the Highlands be permitted a single subdivision to alleviate financial hardship.

The society also recommended a study be undertaken, possibly with financial help from the government, to ascertain the feasibility of a general trail through the Highlands.

Former board chairman Jim Campbell said it is a question of permitting agricultural land on the Saanich Peninsula to be sacrificed for housing or locating residential development in the Highlands.

"It's better to have them live on rocks rather than farms," he said.

Outfall Blocked

The writ, submitted by the local ratepayers' associations and the Concerned Citizens of B.C., asks for a judicial review of a provincial government decision to allow the outfall.

The government decision reversed a ruling made earlier by the Pollution Control Board which opposed the outfall plan following objections raised by residents.

Site Approved For Discharge

A new 1½-acre site for discharge of septic tank waste near the intersection of Helmcken and the Trans-Canada Highway was approved by the Capital Regional Board on Wednesday.

The privately-owned site, which will cost $75,000, must be rezoned.

The Pollution Control Branch allowed the regional district to continue dumping waste at Millstream Road until March 31.

Board chairman Murray Glazier said Wednesday he felt the PCB will allow dumping to continue at Millstreeam until rezoning of the new site has been processed.

He said the new site, adjacent to the railway right-of-way, needs public service use zoning.

The septic waste receiving station will have two chambers, one to be used as a holding tank.

Helmcken Short Shrift

The Capital Regional District warned Wednesday that speculators hoping to develop commercial outlets near the new Helmcken Road hospital will get short shrift.

The warning came after the board rejected an application by Desmond E. Hourigan to have 10 acres near the hospital site rezoned from rural to commercial.

Health Minister Bob McClelland has assured the regional district no commercial development will be allowed on the agricultural land near the hospital.

Director Mac Tipton said View Royal residents agreed to the hospital being built in their area on the understanding that commercial development would not be allowed near the new facility.

Cleanup Ordered

The board ruled that the property owners will first be informed of the district's Unsightly Premises and Nuisances Act through a brochure to be prepared by the staff.

Directors felt that after reading the brochure, most owners will comply and clean up their premises.

The bylaw permits the regional district to have its workmen remove offensive material and charge the owner. Unpaid bills would be added to the owner's taxes.

Dog Takeover Due April 1

The provincial government will continue to sell dog tags until April 30, passing the revenue to the regional district.

Treasurer Ken Ball said the regional district will start selling tags the next day, using the same outlets.

Sales people will receive the same seven per cent commission.

Second Fire Hits School

FORT NELSON (CP) — A fire which broke out 10 minutes after school was dismissed Wednesday destroyed most of the Nan Streeper junior secondary school in this northern British Columbia community.

It was the second fire in three days at the school.

Wednesday's fire, which took firemen four hours to bring under control, destroyed the gymnasium, the south wing and the central section of the school.

The north wing, which housed school records and a new $60,000 computer, was saved. Most of the 175 students had left the school when the fire started and those still inside managed to make it to safety.

On Sunday, a fire in the library, which police attributed to arson, caused $85,000 damage.

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION

AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

309 IN MEMORIAM

CORBIN — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Robert J. who passed away March 15, 1971.
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.
- Wife Joy and family.

PENNY - Gertrude Vera who passed away on March 15, 1978.
In loving memory by her husband Robert J., her daughter Marlene Harris and grandchildren Ted, Heather and Robbie.
May all the lovely memories of our lives together sustain us in the loss of one who had so much to give.

WHALEN — In loving memory of Mary Whalen, who passed away March 15, 1973.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
—Every remembered by Jack; sons, Tom, Jack, James and Patrick; daughters, Marie and Helen.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUTE, SANDS

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

Always Pull Rhubarb Stalks

It may seem a little out of order to write in mid-March about pulling the first stalks of rhubarb. The only excuse for doing so is the number of other subjects which must take precedence at the time rhubarb is coming into production.

Few of us can resist pulling a few stalks as early as possible in the season although the flavor is usually disappointing. Adding a quantity of sugar makes it more palatable but does not improve the flavor, nor is the amount of sugar desirable in the diet.

This note is particularly for gardeners who will be pulling for the first time from roots planted two years ago. Don't judge the quality of your plants from early spring pullings because all rhubarb will be sour and sharp at that time.

The reason is this: The sugars which sweeten the leaf stalks are manufactured when the leaves have fully expanded and have been exposed to strong sunlight.

A little later in the season, when production gets into high gear, the leaf stalks are just as sweet as we had hoped. In other words, never pull until the leaves are fully expanded and have been in bright sunshine for a week or ten days, always allowing extra for overcast skies or rainy days.

You will notice that any reference to harvesting rhubarb stalks does not mention picking or cutting, but always pulling.

The stems are removed by bending them outwards away from the plant, then applying a sharp pull upwards combined with a slight twisting of the stalk.

This is the only way to remove rhubarb stalks without damaging the crown of the plant. if the stalks are cut near the base the remaining stubs will rot and the rot will work down into the crown.

Adding a little angelica, either fresh leaves and stems cut small, or in the dry form crumbled small, reduces the acidity of all tart fruits and makes them more palatable with the minimum of sugar. Angelica plants now coming into growth, and dried angelica, can be obtained from the local herb farm.

A regular reader of this column has sent me a hint to pass along that may be of help to those who enjoy rhubarb pies but find the acid content too high for comfort.

This lady suggests the stalks be cut into short pieces, covered with boiling water, and allowed to soak for 45 minutes. The water, which will contain considerable acid, is discarded and the rhubarb cooked in the regular manner.

Good rhubarb depends on a soil high in humus, either compost, old manure, or mushroom compost, and sufficient water at the roots after the rainy season ends. Commercial producers apply 120 tons of manure to the acre, compared with the average farm crops which need only 30 to 40 tons.

Petition For Parity Of Dollars

MIAMI (UPI) — Canadian tourists who regularly vacation in south Florida, seeing their spending power curtailed, are asking for parity between the Canadian and U.S. dollars.

Most Florida businesses discount Canadian money by 15 per cent. McCaffrey, however, claims businessmen stand to lose more money than the discount rate because Canadians are finding Florida vacations too costly.

KENWOOD
The Kenwood 3090 is one of our most popular receivers. It delivers an ample 26 watts per channel (at least it's rated at 26 watts — our tests consistently show 34 to 36 watts is normal!), with less than 0.1% distortion and unusual freedom from noise. In fact, we measure them in the 0.04% range with some as low as 0.01%! This Kenwood's tuner section is equally impressive. A super sensitive (11.2 dBf) tuner assures excellent clarity on weak stations, while Cascade Junction FET circuitry prevents overloading.
When you buy Kenwood, you get Young's famous 7-year written guarantee too! So drop in for a listen, and bring your old set with you — we give generous trades. ONLY $299.95

Attica Antiques
OLD FRIENDS SALE
WHAT IS AN OLD FRIENDS SALE? In the antique business we refer to beautiful old pieces of furniture that have been in stock for some time as old friends. — It seems that the only way to get rid of these old friends is to price them so attractively that they have to leave — and become your old friend. — Here's what we've done — All the old friends on our showroom floor have been down priced so attractively (some by as much as 50%) that we know you'll meet an old friend at ATTICA.
WHY ARE WE DOING THIS? Simple, we have to make room on our showroom floor for hundreds of new friends presently on their way over to ATTICA FROM THE U.K.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♢	4 ♣	6 ♢

Opening lead — king of clubs.

The basic purpose of a preemptive bid is to crowd the bidding so that the opponents — who are presumed to have the better hands — will have very limited space for the exchange of information. Quite often this tactic succeeds and the opponents get to the wrong contract.

Consider West's four club bid, which is a typical preemptive bid. With seven winners in his hand and 100 honors to boot, West cannot lose more than 400 points even if he is doubled and goes down three.

In that case, after it turns out that his partner is trickless, the 400-point sacrifice becomes very worthwhile, since the enemy are almost sure to have a game, if not a slam. From every viewpoint, therefore, the jump-overcall by West in clubs in a super-sound tactical measure.

Now let's examine North's predicament after the preemptive overcall. It is not clear what he should do over four clubs. North's actual raise to six diamonds — though a shot in the dark — is probably as good as any other bid he can make.

The way things turned out, though, North should have bid only five diamonds. West led the king of clubs, covered by the ace and ruffed by East. Declarer later lost a heart trick and went down one.

However, the outcome does not prove that North was wrong to have bid the slam. In fact, had declarer played the hand more carefully, he would have made six diamonds. He should have anticipated the possibility that East had no clubs, and protected against it by playing low from dummy on West's king of clubs!

If West then led the queen of clubs, declarer would again play low from dummy and ruff the club in his hand. It would then be easy for declarer to score the twelve tricks he had started with.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, March 16
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You're involved — emotionally and where finances enter picture. Security, on various levels, could be at stake. Know it, act accordingly. You make discovery. Enlightenment is available, attainable. Do have the courage to see as is — please!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Go slow, play waiting game, check sources, be positive concerning contracts, legal rights and permissions. Defer to desires of those close to you, especially partner or spouse. Intuition, judgment may be sightly off-centre.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis on basic material, doing "homework," getting foothold, lettering dependents know just how far they can go. Be flexible, not weak. Accept invitation to social affair. You are going to gain through contacts, reading recommendations, publication.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Climate of change, flexibility, curiosity exists. Relationship is intensified. Nothing is lukewarm or halfway — it is commitment, hot or cold, no in-between, all the way or nothing. Gemini, Pisces, Sagitarius persons figure in scenario. Young person could provide inspiration.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain hint from Gemini message. Be analytical. Don't be satisfied merely to know that something occurred — find out why it happened. What appeared a trap may actually be a stepping-stone towards additional security. Act accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Home, relatives, short trips, inquiries regarding payments, debts, purchases are featured. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons play key roles. A letter which you have been "writing" in your mind, should now get written and posted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on decisions concerning collections, payments, money and income potential. Pisces, Virgo persons play key roles. Check sources, ratings, "track records." See people, places as they are, not merely as you might wish them to be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on organization, basic issues, priorities, investments, intensified relationship. Cycle high — take initiative, make personal appearances, stress independence and originality, this can be your "power play" day!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You locate "missing link." Accent on discovery, getting beneath surface indications. You can gain access to data which had been obscured or hidden. Aries, Libra persons figure prominently. You can complete important project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friendship can be transformed into "serious" relationship. You make new starts in new directions. Obtain hint from Scorpio message. Personality, charisma enhances powers of persuasion. You could win popularity contest!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cycle is such that business, career, ambitions are spotlighted. Refuse to be bogged down by those who are envious, who whine and attempt to degenerate your efforts. Leap over red tape. Follow through on intuitive flash. Teach and learn.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on publishing, distribution, communication, educational projects, spiritual revelations. Gemini, Sagitarius, Virgo individuals could figure prominently. Be willing to enlarge horizons, to make a try for "brass ring."

IF MARCH 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensitive, psychic, not easy to live with, perceptive, spiritual, alone in a crowd, a perfectionist, artistic and constantly in need of affection and reassurance. You can become "famous" in 1979 — your memorable months will be August and September. You gain wider recognition, views are vindicated as you complete an important project. Pisces, Virgo, Sagittarius persons could play key roles in your life.
